Sports Awards Speech

Good Evening, as my good friend and classmate, John O'Brien, mentioned, my name is Vincent LaFuma and I graduated Cathedral in 2001. When John asked me to give this speech, I admit, I was a bit hesitant. Hesitant because I am not a fan of public speaking, I never have been. I thought about it for a few days. I remembered sitting in the very seats that you are all sitting in tonight. I remembered working hard throughout the year and looking forward to the sports awards dinner. I came to the conclusion that I owed it back to Cathedral to give the speech. For all that Cathedral for me while I was here and since I graduated.

I want to speak to you tonight about being an underdog and being looked at differently by others. Two stereotypes that are almost always associated with being a Cathedral Man. I am going to speak about my family and myself as an example of that and how being a Cathedral man helps you overcome anytime you feel like that underdog, or when you feel like everyone else looks at you differently.

I grew up in Maspeth, Queens. That was where my parents bought their first home and still live in to this day. My parents migrated to New York from Sicily in the early 1970's. Not knowing English, my mother and her sisters attended Long Island City High School while my grandfather worked in the fire proofing union and my grandmother in a garment factory. Not being able to speak the language put them at an immediate disadvantage-Underdogs. They were ridiculed, teased, even abused physically at times, but they never quit. They forged on learning

The Sports Industry's War on Athletes Peter Finley, Laura L. Finley, 2006-07-30 In America sports are a popular passion and an astoundingly lucrative business as well Americans pay out millions of dollars annually for channels and stadiums to bring them closer to their favorite players and every year young athletes go to greater lengths to reach those exalted fields of play themselves Unfortunately in the quest to offer an ever more compelling product the sports industry is blind to the manner in which that product is created Doping playing through injury and eating disorders are widespread problems in both professional and college athletics and speak volumes about the lengths to which people will go in order to make themselves successful Dirty play hazing and cheating are common even at the lowest levels Most troubling of all however are the societal problems created by the sports industry which include racism sexism classism and homophobia Peter and Laura Finley s comprehensive work confronts the many problems facing athletics today Using numerous examples both historical and current they begin with the issue as they exist at the highest levels and as they are represented in the media They then go on to look at how the values and models expressed by professionals are adopted and utilized by coaches parents and eventually by amateur athletes of all ages Finally the Finleys provide recommendations for improving the sports environment in America suggesting ways we can work to counteract some of these many harmful influences to ensure that sports realize their potential as a positive and rewarding activity
