Spm 2010 English Paper 1:

Prof. Izhar, 2015-08-09 Language Planning in Primary Schools in Asia Richard Baldauf, Robert Kaplan, Knono Kamwangamalu, Pauline Bryant, 2013-09-13 In foreign language education decisions must be taken on what languages to teach who will teach them in which schools i.e. all only urban only rural in which grades the number of hours a week and the cost involved This book explores the answers to these questions across a number of Asian polities It illustrates why some of the efforts undertaken are successful and why some are not why despite significant investments of time and resources some students do not seem to acquire the languages being taught and why some teachers responsible for instruction in the designated foreign languages have problems achieving fluency in the designated language or have other language teaching difficulties It suggests some strategies various polities might attempt to achieve their stated language learning objectives This book was originally published as a special issue of Current Issues in Language Planning Literature Education in the Asia-Pacific Chin Ee Loh, Suzanne S. Choo, Catherine Beavis, 2018-03-29 The continual rise of English as a global lingua franca has meant that English literature both as a discipline and as a tool in ESL and EFL classrooms is being used in varied ways outside the inner circle of English This edited collection provides an overview of English literature education in the Asia Pacific in global times bringing to international attention a rich understanding of the trends issues and challenges specific to nations within the Asia Pacific region Comprising contributions from Australia China Hong Kong India Indonesia Malaysia Philippines Singapore and Vietnam the collection addresses the diversity of learners in different national cultural and teaching contexts In doing so it provides insights into historical and current trends in literature education foregrounds specific issues and challenges in policymaking and implementation presents practical matters concerning text selection use of literature in the language classroom innovative practices in literature education and raises pressing and important questions about the nature purpose and importance of literature education in global times English (Teaching & Research Aptitude) YCT Expert Team , 2022 23 NTA UGC NET JRF English Teaching Research Aptitude Chapter wise Solved Papers

Morphologically complex words in the mind/brain Alina Leminen, Harald Clahsen, Minna Lehtonen, Mirjana Bozic, 2016-04-07 The question of how morphologically complex words assigned to listen ed are represented and processed in the brain has been one of the most hotly debated topics in the cognitive neuroscience of language Do complex words engage cortical representations and processes equivalent to single lexical objects or are they processed as sequences of separate morpheme like units Research on morphological processing has suggested that adults make efficient use of both lexical i.e. whole word storage and retrieval as well as combinatorial computation in processing morphologically complex words Psycholinguistic studies have demonstrated that processing of complex words can be affected both by properties of the morphemes and the whole words such as their frequency transparency and regularity Furthermore this research has been informative about the time course of complex word recognition and production and the role of morphological structure in these processes At the neural level left hemisphere inferior frontal and superior temporal areas and negative going event related potentials have been consistently associated with morphological processing While most previous research has been done on the recognition of morphologically complex words in adult native speakers much less is known about neurocognitive processes involved in the on line production of morphologically complex words and even less on morphological processing in children and non native speakers Moreover we have limited understanding of how linguistically distinct morphological processes e g inflectional listen ed versus derivational assign ment are handled by the cortical language networks This e book provides an up to date overview of the questions currently addressed in the field of morphological processing It highlights the significance of morphological information in language processing both written and spoken as assessed by a variety of methods and approaches It also provides a comprehensive range of research and development tools for the development of new technologies

English Language Education in Southeast Asia: Problems and Possibilities (Penerbit USM)
Ruanni Tupas, Shantini Pillai, Ramesh Nair, 2016 This book addresses the problems and possibilities of English language education in Southeast Asia from the point of view of researchers who are themselves also English language teachers The researchers are from Malaysia Indonesia Philippines Singapore and New Zealand The articles in this edited book examine teaching and language learning goals in relation to the desired development of linguistic knowledge More importantly the articles also reflect on the nurturing of appropriate learning abilities and independent thinking that is framed by the expanding learner awareness of identity culture and society within and beyond the classroom Ultimately the book tackles issues that emerge from the fact that we teach and learn English in a region that is hugely multicultural and multilingual

Epigenetic Modifications Associated with Abiotic and Biotic Stresses in Plants: An Implication for Understanding Plant Evolution Mahmoud W. Yaish, Heribert Hirt, Barbara Hohn, 2018-01-16 Alterations in gene expression are essential during growth and development phases and when plants are exposed to environmental challenges Stress conditions induce gene expression modifications which are associated with changes in the biochemical and physiological processes that help plants to avoid or reduce potential damage resulting from these stresses After exposure to stress surviving plants tend to flower earlier than normal and therefore transfer the accumulated epigenetic information to their progenies given that seeds where this information is stored are formed at a later stage of plant development DNA methylation is correlated with expression repression Likewise miRNA produced in the cell can reduce the transcript abundance or even prevent translation of mRNA. However, histone modulation such as histone acetylation, methylation, and ubiquitination can show distinct effects on gene expression. These alterations can be inherited, especially if the plants are consistently exposed to a particular environmental stress. Retrotransposons and retroviruses are foreign movable DNA elements that play an important role in plant evolution. Recent studies have shown that epigenetic alterations control the movement and the expression of genes harbored within these elements. These epigenetic modifications have an impact on the morphology and biotic and abiotic tolerance in the subsequent generations because they can be inherited through the transgenerational memory in plants. Therefore, epigenetic modifications including DNA methylation, histone modifications, and small RNA interference serve not only to alter gene expression but also may enhance the evolutionary process in eukaryotes. In this E-book, original research and review articles that cover issues related to the role of DNA methylation, histone modifications, and small RNA in plant transgenerational epigenetic memory were published. The knowledge published on this topic may add new insight on the involvement of epigenetic factors in natural selection and environmental adaptation. This information may also help to generate a modeling system to study the epigenetic role in evolution.
