persistence of the fax machine illustrates the close link between technology and culture Co Winner of the Hagley Prize in Business History of the Business History Conference Faxed is the first history of the facsimile machine the most famous recent example of a tool made obsolete by relentless technological innovation Jonathan Coopersmith recounts the multigenerational multinational history of the device from its origins to its workplace glory days in the process revealing how it helped create the accelerated communications information flow and vibrant visual culture that characterize our contemporary world Most people assume that the fax machine originated in the computer and electronics revolution of the late twentieth century but it was actually invented in 1843 Almost 150 years passed between the fax s invention in England and its widespread adoption in tech savvy Japan where it still enjoys a surprising popularity Over and over again faxing s promise to deliver messages instantaneously paled before easier less expensive modes of communication first telegraphy then radio and television and finally digitalization in the form of email the World Wide Web and cell phones By 2010 faxing had largely disappeared having fallen victim to the same technological and economic processes that had created it Based on archival research and interviews spanning two centuries and three continents Coopersmith s book recovers the lost history of a once ubiquitous technology Written in accessible language that should appeal to engineers and policymakers as well as historians Faxed explores themes of technology push and market pull user based innovation and blackboxing the packaging of complex skills and technologies into packages designed for novices while revealing the inventions inspired by the fax how the demand for fax machines eventually caught up with their availability and why subsequent shifts in user preferences rendered them mostly pass Federal Rules of Evidence Manual Stephen A. Ford, 2020-07-09 The story of the P 51B Mustang aircraft from its development prior to the American entry into the war through to D Day in June 1944 During World War II the United States Army Air Corps was led by a cadre of officers who believed implicitly that military aviation particularly fast heavy bombers at high altitude would be able to destroy strategic enemy targets during daylight with minimal losses However by 1942 the Flying Fortress was proving vulnerable to Luftwaffe fighters This title charts the United States Army Air Force s struggle to develop a Long Range Escort which would enable them to achieve the Combined Bomber Objectives and gain mastery of the skies over the Third Reich The commitment of the USAAF to the Mediterranean and European theatres saw an increasingly desperate need to find a fighter escort which reached crisis point in 1943 as losses suffered in the Tidal Wave offensive and Schweinfurt Regensburg Munster raids emphasised the mounting strength of the Luftwaffe The USAAF leaders increasingly accepted the probability of bomber losses and the deployment of the P 51B Mustang solved the problem of Germany s layered defence strategy as Luftwaffe fighters had been avoiding the P 47 Thunderbolt and P 38 Lightning escort fighters by concentrating their attacks beyond the range of the Thunderbolt and Lightning The P 51B duly emerged as the The Bastard

Stepchild that the USAAF Material Division did not want becoming the key Long Range Escort fighter alongside the P 38 and P 47 that defeated the Luftwaffe prior to D Day As well as the P 51B s history this title explores the technical improvements made to each of these fighters as well as the operational leadership and technical development of the Luftwaffe they fought against
