31 Hours Masha Hamilton,2010-08-15

A woman in New York awakens knowing as deeply as a mother's blood can know that her grown son is in danger She has not heard from him in weeks His name is Jonas His girlfriend Vic doesn't know what she has done wrong but Jonas won't answer his cell phone We soon learn that Jonas is isolated in a safe house apartment in New York City pondering his conversion to Islam and his experiences training in Pakistan preparing for the violent action he has been instructed to take in 31 hours Jonas's absence from the lives of those who love him causes a cascade of events and as the novel moves through the streets and subways of New York we come to know intimately the lives of its characters We also learn to feel deeply the connections and disconnections that occur between young people and their parents not only in this country but in the Middle East as well Carried by Hamilton's highly lauded prose this story about the helplessness of those who cannot contact a beloved young man who is on a devastatingly confused path is compelling on the most human level In our world when a family loses track of an idealistic son an entire city could be in danger From the author of The Distance Between Us The Last Bridge Teri Coyne,2010 For ten years Alexandra Cat Rucker has been on the run from her past With an endless supply of bourbon and a series of meaningless jobs Cat is struggling to forget her Ohio hometown and the rural farmhouse she once called home But a sudden call from an old neighbor forces Cat to return to the home and family she never intended to see again It seems that

Cat's mother is dead. What Cat finds at the old farmhouse is disturbing and confusing: a suicide note written on lilac stationery and neatly sealed in a ziplock bag that reads "Cat, He isn't who you think he is. Mom xxxooo. One note, ten words, one for every year she has been gone completely turns Cat's world upside down. Seeking to unravel the mystery of her mother's death, Cat must confront her past to discover who he might be, her tyrannical abusive father now in a coma after suffering a stroke. Her brother Jared, named after her mother's true love, who is also her father's best friend. The town coroner, Andrew Reilly, who seems to have known Cat's mother long before she landed on a slab in his morgue. Or Addison Watkins, Cat's first and only love. The closer Cat gets to the truth, the harder it is for her to repress the memory and the impact of the events that sent her away so many years ago. Publisher's description

The Camel Library: A True Story from Pakistan Marzieh Abbas, 2025-08-19 Alongside warm and soft illustrations by Anain Shaikh, Marzieh Abbas lovingly weaves the heartfelt true story of Pakistan's first camel library, which reconnected Pakistani children to the light of books in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic. Meet Roshan, the camel. He spends his days carrying firewood with his human, Murad, to feed their family. One day, a pandemic sweeps through their home country of Pakistan, closing the schools and public libraries. Many children, especially in rural areas, were left without access to learning materials. Then Roshan and Murad get a call from an organization that wants to help, and they accept a new mission: instead of carrying firewood, they'll carry books. Day after day, they set out to different villages. Roshan's back is loaded with books to lend out to the children they meet. But they don't just bring stories; they also carry joy, hope, and connection. The back of the book includes photos and more information about the camel library program, as well as fun facts about camels.
