Francis Bumpus,2015-06-25 Excerpt from The Cathedrals of Northern France The Cathedrals described in this volume are those included above two lines drawn across the map of France from the mouth of the Loire to the Allier and thence to the Ardennes For reasons which need not be given here the descriptions of the Breton Cathedrals of Rennes Quimper Saint Brieuc and Vannes are deferred for the present To have arranged all these great churches in chronological order would have been to impair the usefulness of the book as a touring companion It has therefore been thought advisable to group them in their respective Archiepiscopal Provinces Thus Amiens Beauvais Chalons and Soissons follow Rheims Bayeux Coutances Evreux and Seez are grouped under Rouen Blois Chartres Orleans and Versailles under Paris and so on It must be remarked that the volume only contains those churches which are actually the seats of bishops in the present day so that many noble cathedrals suppressed at the Revolution such as Auxerre Laon Lisieux Noyon Senlis and Saint Omer are omitted After these pages had gone to the press the author became haunted with the idea that something might be done to pierce the veil of mystery hanging over the original architect of Rheims Cathedral About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works The Cathedrals of Northern France M. F. Mansfield,2019-12-12 In The Cathedrals of Northern France M F Mansfield presents a richly detailed exploration of the architectural grandeur and spiritual significance of France s northern cathedrals Employing a meticulous literary style that seamlessly weaves historical narrative with critical analysis Mansfield delves into the Gothic elements that define these awe inspiring structures The text highlights not only the aesthetic innovations but also the socio political contexts in which these cathedrals were erected illustrating their roles as beacons of faith and artistry in medieval society M F Mansfield an accomplished art historian and scholar with a focus on medieval architecture brings a wealth of knowledge and personal passion to this work Her academic background coupled with extensive field research across the northern regions of France informs her ability to decipher the complex interplay of cultural narratives that shaped these monumental edifices Mansfield s appreciation for the intricate craftsmanship and historical significance of these sites deepens the reader s understanding of their enduring legacy This book is a quintessential read for scholars historians and cultural enthusiasts alike inviting a profound engagement with both the splendor and the stories hidden within the cathedrals Mansfield s compelling prose and insightful observations challenge readers to appreciate these structures not merely as buildings but as vital expressions of a civilization s faith aspirations and artistic achievements The Cathedrals of Northern France M. The Cathedrals of Northern and Southern France Milburg Francisco Mansfield, An attempt to enumerate the architectural monuments of France is not possible without due consideration being given to the topographical divisions of the country which so far as the early population and the expression of their arts and customs is concerned naturally divides itself into two grand divisions of influences widely dissimilar Historians generally agree that the country which embraces the Frankish influences in the north as distinct from that where are spoken the romance languages finds its partition somewhere about a line drawn from the mouth of the Loire to the Swiss lakes Territorially this approaches an equal division with the characteristics of architectural forms well nigh as equally divided Indeed Fergusson who in his general estimates and valuations is seldom at fault thus divides it on a line which follows the valley of the Loire to a point between Tours and Orleans then southwesterly to Lyons and thence along the valley of the Rh ne to Geneva With such a justification then it is natural that some arbitrary division should be made in arranging the subject matter of a volume which treats in part only of a country or its memorials even though the influences of one section may not only have lapped over into the other but as in certain instances extended far beyond As the peoples were divided in speech so were they in their manner of building and the most thoroughly consistent and individual types were in the main confined to the environment of their birth A notable exception is found in Brittany where is apparent a generous admixture of style which does not occur in the churches of the first rank referring to the imposing structures of the Isle de France and its immediate vicinity The Grand Cathedrals of this region are perhaps most strongly impressed upon the mind of whoever takes something more than a superficial interest in the subject as the type which embodies the loftiest principles of Gothic forms and as such they are perhaps best remembered by that very considerable body of persons known as intelligent observers The strongest influences at work in the north from the twelfth century onward have been in favour of the Gothic or pointed styles whilst in the south civic and ecclesiastical architecture alike were of a manifest Byzantine or Romanesque tendency No better illustration of this is possible than to recall the fact that when the builders of the fifteenth century undertook to complete that astoundingly impressive choir at Beauvais they sought to rival in size and magnificence its namesake at Rome which under the care of the Pontiff himself was then being projected Thus it was that this thoroughly Gothic structure of the north was to stand forth as the indicator of local influences as contrasted with the Italian design and plans of the St Peter s of the south A discussion of the merits of any territorial claims as to the inception of what is commonly known as Gothic architecture under which name for the want of a more familiar term it shall be referred to herein is quite apart from the purport of this volume and as such it were best ignored The statement however may be made that it would seem clearly to be the development of a northern influence which first took shape after a definite form in a region safely comprehended as lying within the confines of northeastern France the Netherlands and the northern Rhine Provinces Much has been written on this debatable subject and doubtless will continue to be either as an arrow shot into the air by some wary pedant or an equally unconvincing statement without proof of some mere follower in the footsteps of an illustrious but behind the times expert It matters not as a mere detail whether it was brought from the East in imperfect form by the Crusaders and only received its development at the hands of some ingenious northerner or not Its development was certainly rapid and sure in the great group which we know to day in northern France and if proof were wanted the existing records in stone ought to be sufficiently convincing to point out the fact that here Medi val Gothic architecture received its first and most perfect development The Primaire the development of the style finding its best example at Paris The Secondaire the Perfectionnement at Reims and its Apogee at Amiens The Tertiaire practically the beginning of the decadence in St Ouen at Rouen only a shade removed from the debasement which soon followed As to the merits or demerits of the contemporary structures of other nations that also would be obviously of comparative unimportance herein except so far as a comparison might once and again be made to accentuate values
