European Fundamental Rights and Freedoms Dirk Ehlers, Ulrich Becker, Et al., 2011-12-07 The ever increasing relevance of European law which involves replacement or supplementation of and interaction with national law not only affects the states in Europe but also and foremost the citizens The rights of the citizens in Europe are protected by the European Fundamental Rights and Freedoms The aim of this textbook is to grasp and illustrate the meaning of these rights and to integrate it into a coherent system For this purpose the book not only deals with the pertinent law of the European Union and the European Community but also with the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms which too is becoming more and more important In addition regard is had to the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the Union which forms part of the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe Although the Charter is not yet legally binding since the Constitution has not been ratified by all EU Member States the Community Courts already make reference to it as a concentrate of the constitutional traditions common to the Member States It therefore does not seem entirely unlikely that the Charter might be included into the existing Treaties irrespective of the future constitutional developments on the EU level On a similar anticipatory basis the book also takes into account those Protocols to the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms that have not yet entered into force

Shareholders' Claims for Reflective Loss in International Investment Law Lukas Vanhonnaeker,2020-07-16 In recent years investor state tribunals have often permitted shareholders claims for reflective loss despite the well established principle of no reflective loss applied consistently in domestic regimes and in other fields of international law Investment tribunals have justified their decisions by relying on definitions of investment in investment agreements that often include shares while the no reflective loss principle is generally justified on the basis of policy considerations pertaining to the preservation of the efficiency of the adjudicatory process and to the protection of other stakeholders such as creditors Although these policy considerations militating for the prohibition of shareholders claims for reflective loss also apply in investor state arbitration they are curable in that context and must be balanced with policy considerations specific to the field of international investment law that weigh in favor of such claims the protection of foreign investors in order to promote trade and investment liberalization
