Spatial Intelligence Daniel Ness, Stephen J. Farenga, Salvatore G. Garofalo, 2017-05-12 Spatial Intelligence examines public and professional conceptions of the relationships between thinking about spatial attributes and active engagement in spatially related constructions and designs Even though children s and adolescents spatial propensities in constructive activities parallel the skills needed by professionals in both established and emerging fields spatial education is often missing from K 12 curricula and is easily impeded by teachers parents or other individuals who do not provide contexts in formalized settings such as schools to nurture its potential This book bridges the gap by linking the natural spatial inclinations interests and proclivities of individuals from a variety of cultures with professional training and expertise in engineering architecture science and mathematics Educators will be better able to achieve the skills and awareness necessary to provide children and young adults with the vital opportunities inherent in spatial education The Pythagorean proposition; its proofs analyzed and classified and Elisha Scott Loomis, 1927 The Pythagorean Theorem Merle A. Barlow, 2016-02-05 Pythagoras a famous Greek scholar sathematician and philosopher formulated a proof for a theorem that is named for him the Pythagorean theorem This theorem states that in any right triangle the square of the hypotenuse is equal to the sum of the squares of the other two sides The Pythagorean theorem for right angled triangles likely was known long before the time of Pythagoras It was probably used by the ancient Egyptians to construct the pyramids The theorem is quite believable without rigorous proof to anyone willing to expend a modest effort in some experimentation One method is to draw a number of right angled triangles in as wide a variety as practicable and measure all of the sides It will be determined that for each triangle drawn the square of the length of the side opposite the right angle is about equal to the sum of the lengths of the squares of the other two sides Another method requires the availability of a balance For this more interesting experiment construct a right angled triangle and a square on each side using a piece of sheet metal or cardboard Then cut out the three squares and weigh them on the balance The square on the hypotenuse should balance the other two Contained within this book are some rigorous proofs and some interesting perspectives regarding right angles and right angled triangles Doubtless this theorem is one of the most useful concepts in mathematics The Pythagorean Theorem Eli Maor, 2007 The Pythagorean Proposition Elisha Scott Loomis, 1968 Pythagoras and the Ratios , 2010 The Trisectors Underwood Dudley, 2019-07-01 Underwood Dudley is well known for his collection of books on mathematical cranks Here he offers yet another angle trisectors It is impossible to trisect angles with straightedge and compass alone but many people try and think they have succeeded This book is about angle trisections and the people who attempt them According to Dudley Hardly any mathematical training is necessary to read this book There is a little trigonometry here and there but it may be safely skipped There are hardly any equations There are no exercises and there will be no final examination The worst victim o
