The Canon in Southeast Asian Literatures David Smyth,2000 The literary canon is one of the most lively areas of debate in contemporary literary studies This set of essays is both timely and original in its focus on the canon in South East Asian literatures covering Burma Cambodia Indonesia Laos Malaysia Philippines Thailand and Vietnam They vary in focus from the broad panoramic survey of trends in a national literature to very specific discussions of the role of individuals in shaping a canon or the place of a particular text within a tradition and from contemporary to traditional literature They include discussions of the development of prose fiction censorship and artistic freedom the role of westerners in codifying indigenous literatures the writing of literary history the development of literary criticism and indigenous aesthetics

African-Language Literatures Innocentia Jabulisile Mhlambi,2012-06-01 African language writing is in crisis The conditions under which African writing developed in the past only remotely similar to those of Western models resulted in an inability of Eurocentric literary models to explore the hermeneutic world of African language poetics inherited from the oral and the modern worlds Existing modes of criticism in the study of this literary tradition are often unsuited for a nuanced understanding of the intrinsic and extrinsic aspects at play in the composition production and reading of these literatures In African Language Literatures Innocentia Jabulisile Mhlambi charts new directions in the study of African language literatures generally and isiZulu fiction in particular by proposing that African popular arts and culture models be considered as a logical solution to current debates and challenges Mhlambi shows how the popular arts and culture approach brings into relationship the oral and written forms the local and the international and elitist and popular genres and locates and places the resultant emerging eclectic culture into its socio historical context She uses this theoretical approach to explore in a wide range of cultural products what matters or what is of interest to the people irrespective of social hierarchies and predispositions It is her contention that in profound ways the African language literary tradition evinces diversity complexity and fluidity and that this should be seen as an invitation to look at systems of meaning which do not hide their connections with the facts of power and material life

A Comparative History of Literatures in the Iberian Peninsula César Domínguez,Anxo Abuín González,Ellen Sapega,2016-10-20 Volume 2 of

A Comparative History of Literatures in the Iberian Peninsula brings to an end this collective work that aims at surveying the network of interliterary relations in the Iberian Peninsula. No attempt at such a comparative history of literatures in the Iberian Peninsula has been made until now. In this volume the focus is placed on images. Section 1 genres. Section 2 forms of mediation. Section 3 and cultural studies and literary repertoires. Section 4. To these four sections an epilogue is added in which specialists in literatures in the Iberian Peninsula as well as in the sub disciplines of comparative history and comparative literary history search for links between Volumes 1 and 2 from the point of view of general contributions to the field of Iberian comparative studies and assess the entire project that now reaches completion with contributions from almost one hundred scholars.

Hopi Traditional Literature David Leedom Shaul, 2002. In this unique study of Hopi discourse an anthropologist describes the major public forms of Hopi discourse using a Hopi typology. That is he describes from a Hopi viewpoint the structures of narratives, songs, songpoems and direct address forms such as oration, prayer and conversation. In addition to categories like versification which are comparable to the building blocks of literature in English he looks at distinctively Hopi genre signatures and evaluative concepts. Not only does he consider the structural characteristics of each genre but he also relates the genres to contextual and cultural factors. Examples are presented in bilingual format and musical notation of several Hopi songs is included. Although the book will be of interest to scholars in linguistics, ethnopoetics, discourse analysis and performance theory the author does not assume extensive knowledge of these fields or of the Hopi language on the part of his reader. He includes a pronunciation guide, a technical glossary and a sketch of Hopi grammar.
