Decolonising Media and Communication Studies Education in Sub-Saharan Africa Selina Linda Mudavanhu, Shepherd Mpofu, Kezia Batisai, 2023-10-27 The book provides insights on decolonising media and communication studies education from diverse African scholars at different stages of their careers These academics located on the continent and in the diaspora share an interest in decolonising higher education broadly and media and communication studies teaching and learning in particular Although many African countries gained flag independence from different European colonial powers between the 1950s and the 1970s this book argues that former colonies remain ensnared in a colonial power matrix Many African universities did not jettison ways of teaching and learning established during colonialism and even those journalism communication and media studies training programmes which were established after the attainment of flag independence did not place decolonial agendas at the front and centre when setting them up Starting with big picture thematic questions around decolonisation the book goes on to consider what the implications of change would be for students and instructors before reflecting on how far it is possible to decolonise curricula and syllabi and what this might look like in practice across a range of subject areas and country contexts Overall this book presents a nuanced picture of what a decolonised media and communication studies education could look like in sub Saharan Africa This book is essential for researchers in Africa in disciplines such as media and communication studies journalism film studies cultural studies and higher education studies More broadly the concepts and ideas on decolonising teaching and learning discussed in the book are relevant to instructors in any discipline who are interested in doing the decolonial work of contesting coloniality

Philosophical Inquiry with Children Gilbert Burgh, Simone Thornton, 2018-12-07 Philosophy in schools in Australia dates back to the 1980s and is rooted in the Philosophy for Children curriculum and pedagogy Seeing potential for educational change Australian advocates were quick to develop new classroom resources and innovative programs that have proved influential in educational practice throughout Australia and internationally Behind their contributions lie key philosophical and educational discussions and controversies which have shaped attempts to introduce philosophy in schools and embed it in state and national curricula Drawing together a wide range of eminent scholars and practitioners in the field of educational philosophy this anthology the first of its kind provides not only a historical narrative but an opportunity to reflect on the insights and experiences of the authors that have made history The collection is divided into three parts The overarching theme of Part I is the early years of Philosophy for Children in Australia and how they informed the course that the philosophy in schools movement would take Part II focuses on the events and debates surrounding the development and production of new materials including arguments for and against the suitability of the original Philosophy for Children curriculum In Part III key developments relating to teaching philosophy in schools are analysed This collection of diverse views critical appraisals and different perspectives of historical currents is intended to stimulate thought provoking questions about theory and practice and to increase general awareness both nationally and internationally of the maturation of philosophy in schools in Australia It is also intended to encourage readers to identify emerging ideas and develop strategies for their implementation

Teacher Education in Diverse Settings Larry Prochner, Ailie Cleghorn, Anna Kirova, Christine Massing, 2016-09-27 Teacher Education in Diverse Settings presents a study of initial educator preparation in three social contexts a training program for immigrant child care educators in Canada a pre and lower primary specialization in a teacher education program in Namibia and a partnership between the Misak indigenous communities in Colombia and the University of Cauca to deliver courses for educators within their communities In each setting the book explores the relationships between indigenous ways of thinking and western discourse in reference to the preparation of educators whether they be teachers community leaders or newly arrived immigrants in Canada In each case the authors focus is on the tensions between the local understandings and global ideas and the creation of space for diverse but intersecting worldviews The book's goal is to investigate ways that teacher educators parents and communities can better prepare children for the realities of schooling while preserving the integrity of local norms and values through educator preparation programs

Uprooting University Apartheid in South Africa Teresa A. Barnes, 2018-12-07 South Africa continues to be an object of fascination for people everywhere interested in social justice issues postcolonial studies and critical race theory as manifested by the enormous worldwide attention given to the RhodesMustFall movement In this book Teresa Barnes examines universities complex positioning in the apartheid era and argues that tracing the institutional legacies left by pro apartheid intellectuals are crucial to understanding the fight to transform South African higher education A work of interpretive social history this book investigates three historical dynamics in the relationship between the apartheid system and South African higher education First it explores how the legitimacy of apartheid was historically reproduced in public higher education Second it looks at ways that academics maneuvered through and influenced national and international discourses of political freedom and legitimacy Third it explores how and where stubborn tendrils of apartheid era knowledge production practices survived into and have been combatted during the democratic era in South African universities
