markets work better for the poor This book offers a contemporary look at what happens when the modernisation of food supply chains comes face to face with the livelihoods of rural and poor people The authors are drawn from eighteen countries participating in the Regoverning Markets programme which aims to not only improve our understanding of the way modernisation and re structuring of food supply chains is affecting food production and distribution systems but also identify best practice in involving small scale producers in supermarket supply chains and ascertain the barriers to inclusion which need to be removed The book is aimed primarily at academics but will also appeal to practitioners in developing countries civil servants policy makers and NGOs Renewable energy for agrifood chains Puri, M., Rincon, L., Maltsoğlu,

I.,2021-09-14 This report presents a structured approach to identify and estimate the market size of specific renewable energy technologies that have the potential to be deployed across specific stages of the agri food chains More specifically the methodology first analyses the countries value chains and aggregates them into similar agri food groups when possible Once the groupings are defined the value chains are mapped out and the energy requirements across the different stages of the value chain are defined Specific renewable energy options are then identified for each value chain based on the energy demand and the process for which energy is required This structure then feeds into the calculation of the overall market potential by chain and the renewable energy type identified For this report the methodology is illustrated with the case of solar energy technologies that have the potential to be deployed across the agriculture value chains in Rwanda Impact
