The No-nonsense Guide to World Poverty Jeremy Seabrook, 2003. At the turn of the new millennium the United Nations determined that world poverty would be halved by 2015. International agencies are all committed to poverty abatement. The International Monetary Fund and the World Bank have renamed their structural adjustment policies poverty reduction strategies. But can this work? No, argues Jeremy Seabrook, not if we fail to understand the meaning of poverty. Drawing on testimonies from around the world as well as on the hard facts, he challenges the assumption that wealth overcomes poverty and demonstrates that the opposite of poor is not rich but self-reliant. Appealing passionately for a shared sense of sufficiency, he gives verbal snapshots of people's lives to show how poverty shifts, changes, and endures in response to the growth of wealth.

We Get Nothing from Fishing Henrietta Mambo Nyamnjoh, 2010. Henrietta Nyamnjoh must be highly commended for her initiative and courage to tackle in depth research into the hazardous and largely unpredictable reality of boat migration with a view to erasing existing misconceptions, false and partial explanations, and to enhancing our understanding. This is an original and innovative piece of work, well written and well argued. It certainly deserves a wide readership even beyond the normal academic and policy-making circles. Book Jacket

The No-nonsense Guide to Indigenous Peoples Lotte Hughes, 2003. Indigenous peoples have long suffered from exoticization. Outsiders elevate their beauty, remoteness, and difference and do not see beyond this to the real problems they face. The No Nonsense Guide to Indigenous Peoples looks beyond the exotic images, tracing the stories of different indigenous peoples from their first and often fatal contact with explorers and colonizers. Much of this history is told here by indigenous people themselves. They vividly describe why land and the natural world are so special to them, how it feels to be snatched from your family as a child because the government wants to make you white, why they are demanding that museums must return the bones of their ancestors, how can they retain their traditional culture while moving with the times, and what kinds of development are positive. This short guide discusses all this and more, raising countless issues for debate.
