Mathematical Reasoning Raymond Nickerson, 2011-02-25 The development of mathematical competence both by humans as a species over millennia and by individuals over their lifetimes is a fascinating aspect of human cognition This book explores when and why the rudiments of mathematical capability first appeared among human beings what its fundamental concepts are and how and why it has grown into the richly branching complex of specialties that it is today It discusses whether the truths of mathematics are discoveries or inventions and what prompts the emergence of concepts that appear to be descriptive of nothing in human experience Also covered is the role of esthetics in mathematics What exactly are mathematicians seeing when they describe a mathematical entity as beautiful There is discussion of whether mathematical disability is distinguishable from a general cognitive deficit and whether the potential for mathematical reasoning is best developed through instruction This volume is unique in the vast range of psychological questions it covers as revealed in the work habits and products of numerous mathematicians It provides fascinating reading for researchers and students with an interest in cognition in general and mathematical cognition in particular Instructors of mathematics will also find the book's insights illuminating Say it with Symbols, 2002 National Union Catalog, 1978 Includes entries for maps and atlases Teaching Mathematics in Grades 6 - 12 Randall E. Groth, 2012-08-10 A journey into the vibrant and intriguing world of mathematics education Teaching Mathematics in Grades 6 12 explores how research in mathematics education can inform teaching practice in grades 6 12 The author shows secondary mathematics teachers the value of being a researcher in the classroom by constantly experimenting with methods for developing students' mathematical thinking and then connecting this research to practices that enhance students' understanding of the material The chapters in Part I introduce secondary teachers to the field of mathematics education with cross-cutting issues that apply to teaching and learning in all mathematics content areas The chapters in Part II are devoted to specific mathematics content strands and describe how students think about mathematical concepts The goal of the text is to have secondary math teachers gain a deeper understanding of the types of mathematical knowledge their students bring to grade 6 12 classrooms and how students' thinking may develop in response to different teaching strategies El-Hi Textbooks and Serials in Print, 2006
