PARAPHRASE

That time of year thou mayst in me behold In me you can see that time of year

When yellow leaves, or none, or few, do hang When a few yellow leaves or none at all hang

Upon those boughs which shake against the On the branches, shaking against the cold, cold,

Bare ruin'd choirs, where late the sweet birds Bare ruins of church choirs where lately the sang. sweet birds sang.

In me thou seest the twilight of such day In me you can see only the dim light that remains

As after sunset fadeth in the west, After the sun sets in the west,
Which by and by black night doth take away, Which is soon extinguished by black night,

Death's second self, that seals up all in rest. The image of death that envelops all in rest.

In me thou see'st the glowing of such fire I am like a glowing ember

That on the ashes of his youth doth lie, Lying on the dying flame of my youth,
As the death-bed whereon it must expire, As on the death bed where it must finally expire, Consum'd with that which it was nourish'd by. Consumed by that which once fed it.

This thou perceivest, which makes thy love This you sense, and it makes your love more more strong, determined

To love that well which thou must leave ere long. Causing you to love that which you must give up before long.
