Hollywood Reporter, 2008 Britain's Railways 1997-2005 Terence Richard Gourvish, 2008 Britain's leading railway historian provides a critical examination of the Blair government's involvement in the rail industry from 1997 as they attempted to deal with the UK's fragmented privatized railways. The book focuses particularly on the work of the Strategic Rail Authority (SRA) and considers the role of individuals John Prescott, Stephen Byers, Alistair Darling, Sir Alastair Morton, and Richard Bowker, and events like the Hatfield accident 2000, the demise of Railtrack 2001, and the funding crisis of 2003 in the shaping of emerging policy. The book was commissioned by the SRA and written with access to government files. Dr Gourvish argues that the establishment of the SRA as a Non-Departmental Public Board proved largely unsuccessful. It produced tensions with the industry's existing institutions: Railtrack, Network Rail, the operating companies, and the economic regulator. There were some gains from the experiment, notably the rescue of the West Coast Main Line project. However, it remains to be seen whether by winding up the SRA and taking responsibility for strategy and funding back into its own hands, the Department for Transport has resolved the problem of managing a fragmented industry. This important book is essential reading for those concerned with and interested in railway policy both in the UK and elsewhere in the world.

Media Ownership Ronald E. Rice, 2008 Trends and developments in social values, political ideologies, media policies, economic conditions, globalization, media technologies, and telecommunications networks have all interacted to generate significant changes in the nature of media industries: production, content, distribution, exhibition, and use. This book considers a wide variety of interdisciplinary discussion and analysis of historical, legal, cultural, policy, research, professional, oppositional, and ethical perspectives on the media ownership question.
