Educational Media and Technology Yearbook 2003 Mary Ann Fitzgerald, Michael Orey, Robert Maribe Branch, 2003-06-30 The 28th volume of the Educational Media and Technology Yearbook describes current developments and trends in the field of instructional technology. Prominent themes for this volume include e learning, collaboration, the standards reform movement, and a critical look at the field in its historical context. The audience for the Yearbook consists of media and technology professionals in schools, higher education, and business contexts, including instructional technology faculty, school library media specialists, curriculum leaders, business training professionals, and instructional designers. The Educational Media and Technology Yearbook has become a standard reference in many libraries and professional collections.

Greenhouse Technology for Sustainable Agriculture Shakeel Ahmad Bhat, Tawheed Amin, Omar Bashir, Shafat Ahmad Khan, 2025-09-17 Providing an integrated approach to crop growth and development and the technical aspects of greenhouse cultivation and climate management, this new volume focuses on the sustainable elements of greenhouse technology that are currently available on the market. The book examines the most major issues in this dynamic and developing field that calls for innovative multidisciplinary scientific and technological solutions. The advanced greenhouse technology and topics covered in this book include an emphasis on sustainable agriculture, greenhouse design, installation, and maintenance; irrigation and fertigation techniques for greenhouses; automation and control technologies; cooling and ventilation technologies; insect and pest management; organic greenhouse practices; economic feasibility of greenhouse technology under certain conditions; and more.

Understanding and Applying Assessment in Education Damian Murchan, Gerry Shiel, 2024-04-09 All teachers are responsible for assessing the children they teach, and the outcomes of any assessment are important for individual learners, schools, and wider education systems. Designed as a pragmatic guide for new teachers and those training to teach, this book is your one-stop shop for understanding assessment in schools. It covers formative and summative approaches used across primary and secondary education, supporting a balanced overview with policy examples drawn from the UK, Ireland, and wider international contexts. This updated second edition reflects recent trends in assessment and includes more balanced coverage across primary and secondary age phases, with a broader range of examples across curriculum subject areas. A new chapter on the potential of digital assessment for both formative and summative purposes, the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on assessment in general, and examinations in particular. Damian Murchan is Associate Professor in the School of Education at Trinity College Dublin. Gerry Shiel is a Research Fellow at the Educational Research Centre, Dublin, Ireland.

Teaching Chemistry Around the World Björn Risch, 2010 As teachers, we often tend to expect other countries to teach chemistry in much the same way as we do, but educational systems differ widely. At Bielefeld University, we started a project to analyse the approach to chemical education in different countries from all over the world. Teaching Chemistry around the World. 25 countries have participated in the project. The resulting country studies are presented in this book. This book may be seen as a contribution to make the structure of chemistry teaching in numerous countries more transparent and to facilitate communication between these countries Especially in the case of the school subject chemistry which is very unpopular on the one hand and occupies an exceptional position on the other hand due to its relevance to jobs and everyday life and most notably due to its importance for innovation capacity and problem solving we have to learn from each others educational systems
