The change in television – good or bad?

When I was a kid, TV was different because there were so few channels. In Britain in the 1970s, we had just three channels and they went off before midnight, not coming on again until after nine in the morning.

I can imagine all you young people out there, quite unable to imagine life then. Just think – we didn't wake up to breakfast TV! (1) It had songs, a weather report and news. What else is necessary? Which brings me to my point: Has the modernisation of TV really been good for us?

I would say 'No!' and do you know why? Well, as a child I used to go to school every morning and chat excitedly with my friends about the funny sitcom or some other programme we'd watched the night before. Most of us had seen the same programme so it was a shared experience, something we could all talk about.

That doesn't happen so much now. First of all, there are so many different channels to choose from that anytime you turn over, you can find something different to watch. (2) For example, if you want, you can watch sport or cartoons non-stop for 24 hours a day. All this means that when a child arrives at school nowadays, the chances of him or her having seen the same programme as another child are small. This results in people having less in common to talk about. Is that a positive thing? I doubt it.

'Yes, but ...' I hear you say. ' (3) After all, this increase in broadcasting time gives us more opportunities to watch documentaries or catch up on the news, doesn't it? But I wonder ... Yes, we do get more news from all over the world, but do we actually know more about other places and other cultures? How much Chinese TV do you get?

Anyway, I know my ideas are old-fashioned, so I spoke to my daughter and her friends and asked their opinions. (4) They were very enthusiastic about modern media and particularly about TV. A boy called Zack explained to me that, despite the many channels, young people do normally watch the same things. They all have their favourite reality TV programme, which is something they talk about at school together. They also told me that they were lucky because there were some really good music channels. (5) (I have to admit that I think they're probably right about that.)

Well who knows? Maybe I need to rethink my ideas. What do you say?
