Puzzles in Logic, Languages and Computation Dragomir Radev, 2013-02-11 This is the first volume of a unique collection that brings together the best English language problems created for students competing in the Computational Linguistics Olympiad These problems are representative of the diverse areas presented in the competition and designed with three principles in mind To challenge the student analytically without requiring any explicit knowledge or experience in linguistics or computer science To expose the student to the different kinds of reasoning required when encountering a new phenomenon in a language both as a theoretical topic and as an applied problem To foster the natural curiosity students have about the workings of their own language as well as to introduce them to the beauty and structure of other languages To learn about the models and techniques used by computers to understand human language Aside from being a fun intellectual challenge the Olympiad mimics the skills used by researchers and scholars in the field of computational linguistics In an increasingly global economy where businesses operate across borders and languages having a strong pool of computational linguists is a competitive advantage and an important component to both security and growth in the 21st century This collection of problems is a wonderful general introduction to the field of linguistics through the analytic problem solving technique A fantastic collection of problems for anyone who is curious about how human language works These books take serious scientific questions and present them in a fun accessible way Readers exercise their logical thinking capabilities while learning about a wide range of human languages linguistic phenomena and computational models Kevin Knight USC Information Sciences Institute The Curious Mister Catesby E. Logic and Critical Thinking in the Biomedical Sciences Jules J. Berman, 2020-07-08 All too often individuals engaged in the biomedical sciences assume that numeric data must be left to the proper authorities e g statisticians and data analysts who are trained to apply sophisticated mathematical algorithms to sets of data This is a terrible mistake Individuals with keen observational skills regardless of their mathematical training are in the best position to draw correct inferences from their own data and to guide the subsequent implementation of robust mathematical analyses

Volume 2 of Logic and Critical Thinking in the Biomedical Sciences provides readers with a repertoire of deductive non mathematical methods that will help them draw useful inferences from their own data

Volumes 1 and 2 of Logic and Critical Thinking in the Biomedical Sciences are written for biomedical scientists and college level students engaged in any of the life sciences including bioinformatics and related data sciences

Demonstrates that a great deal can be deduced from quantitative data without applying any statistical or mathematical analyses

Provides readers with simple techniques for quickly reviewing and finding important relationships hidden within large and complex sets of data

Using examples drawn from the biomedical literature discusses common pitfalls in data interpretation and how they can be avoided

The Handbook of New Zealand Mammals Carolyn King,David Forsyth,2021-01-20

The Handbook of New Zealand Mammals is the only definitive reference on all the land breeding mammals recorded in the New Zealand region including the New Zealand sector of Antarctica It lists 65 species including native and exotic wild and feral living and extinct residents vagrants and failed introductions It describes their history biology and ecology and brings together comprehensive and detailed information gathered from widely scattered or previously unpublished sources

The description of each species is arranged under standardised headings for easy reference

Because the only native land breeding mammals in New Zealand are bats and seals the great majority of the modern mammal fauna comprises introduced species whose arrival has had profound effects both for themselves and for the native fauna and flora

The book details changes in numbers and distribution for the native species and for the arrivals it summarises changes in habitat diet numbers and size in comparison with their ancestral stocks and some of the problems they present to resource managers

For this third edition the text and references have been completely updated and reorganised into Family chapters

The colour section includes 14 pages of artwork showing all the species described and their main variations plus two pages of maps
