I Know Best Roger L. Simon, 2016-06-14 In 1979 Christopher Lasch published the epochal The Culture of Narcissism warning of the normalizing of narcissism in our society Lasch may have understated it 35 years later in the Obama era with its parade of endless often inexplicable scandals we have a full blown epidemic of what has recently been called Moral Narcissism Forget Narcissus and his reflection Moral Narcissism the almost schizophrenic divide between intentions and results now pervading our culture is the new method for feeling good about yourself It no longer matters how anything turns out as long as your intentions were good that you were moral And just as importantly the only determinant of those intentions the only one who defines that morality is you I Know Best goes beyond Lasch to lay bare how this moral narcissism is behind all those scandals from Obamacare to the Veterans Administration to the IRS Benghazi Bergdahl Syria and beyond Everything the Obama administration did and does was about making them feel good about themselves the results be damned And they have as their allies those supreme moral narcissists in the academy media and Hollywood ever willing to ratify those good intentions and ignore those same results But I Know Best is not just about the Left Moral Narcissism affects the right as well even when they don't realize it It is a true epidemic that must be cured in order to save our democratic republic and our futures

Black Families and Recession in the United States Dorothy Smith-Ruiz, Albert M. Kopak, 2021-03-30 Black Families and the Recession in the United States goes beyond the massive loss of property among African Americans during the Great Recession of 2007-2009 It connects the housing experience to broader systems of inequality in America Following the Great Recession of 2007-2009 the US elections of 2008 the impact of COVID-19 and widespread demonstrations resulting from the murder of George Floyd by police the sociopolitical and economic status of Blacks in the United States is at a critical point in history with demand for major transformation The authors reveal a history of racist practices against Blacks in many systems including education policing incarceration wealth transmission voting restrictions and housing segregation The social costs of the recession are manifested in the daily lives of African American families In addition to financial losses African Americans are more likely to

2016: the Campaign Chronicles JD Foster, 2019-10-08 The 2016 campaign ended with Donald J Trump as president elect of the United States astounding just about everyone More than two dozen candidates had vied for the two parties nominations leaving Trump and former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton Her flaws standing in rough proportion to her strengths Clinton had been the presumed Democratic nominee though Bernie Sanders had nearly upended her run In contrast Trump's capturing the Republican nomination seemed preposterous before and after the fact The campaign overall was far more than the result It was a long tumultuous outrageous frolic of American politics The Campaign Chronicles was written contemporaneously with events as they happened so as to capture the sense of each amazing if horrific moment Even weeks after the election the country remained stunned by the outcome which as we learned foretold of a presidency unlike any before it But before the presidency there was a campaign about which many histories will be written But before the histories must come the chronicling history stripped of faded memories and coherent perspective Herewith such a chronicling written from a determinedly neutral posture presenting the good with the bad for all concerned The Great

Betrayal Fawaz A. Gerges, 2025-04-29 How the Middle East can achieve political change and social progress The Middle East is in upheaval a widening chasm between state and society the failure of governing elites to address citizens genuine grievances massive economic mismanagement all made worse by repeated interventions by Western powers Why has political change been so difficult to achieve In The Great Betrayal Fawaz Gerges argues that the convergence of political authoritarianism meddling by the West and the effects of prolonged regional conflicts have produced political paralysis and economic stagnation The agency of everyday people has been thwarted by an authoritarian status quo that is maintained by a powerful partnership of external and internal forces Gerges traces more than a century of consequential events in the region from the end of the Ottoman Empire and the European carve up of the Middle East to the Iranian Revolution and the Arab Spring uprisings He shows how the people of the Middle East have been systematically denied self determination political representation and effective government Gerges finds that the region with its diversity variability and volatility defies abstract grand theories previous accounts that have attributed the Middle East s problems to any one cause such as modernism ignore the complexity and specificity of the issues What can we learn from the Middle East s vexed history Gerges is optimistic declaring that the region s future will be determined not by dictators and their superpower patrons but by a growing population of Arab and Muslim youth who demand to be treated as citizens and not as subjects Best

Challenging the One Best System Katrina E. Bulkeley, Julie A. Marsh, Katharine O. Strunk, Douglas N. Harris, Ayesha K. Hashim, 2021-02-04 In Challenging the One Best System, a team of leading education scholars offers a rich comparative analysis of the set of urban education governance reforms collectively known as the portfolio management model. They investigate the degree to which this model, a system of schools operating under different types of governance and with different degrees of autonomy, challenges the standard structure of district governance, famously characterized by David Tyack as the one best system. The authors examine the design and enactment of the portfolio management model in three major cities: New Orleans, Los Angeles, and Denver. They identify the five interlocking mechanisms at the core of the model: planning and oversight, choice, autonomy, human capital, and school supports, and show how these are implemented differently in each city. Using rich qualitative data from extensive interviews, the authors trace the internal tensions and tradeoffs that characterize these systems and highlight the influence of historical and contextual factors as well. Most importantly, they question whether the portfolio management model represents a fundamental restructuring of education governance or more incremental change, and whether it points in the direction of meaningful improvement in school practices. Drawing on a rigorous multimethod study, Challenging the One Best System represents a significant contribution to our understanding of system-level change in education.
