Federal Register ,1949 Werner's Readings and Recitations ,1912 Reviews and Essays of Austin Clarke Austin Clarke, 1995 Austin Clarke is widely regarded as one of 20th century Ireland's most important poets In this selection of nearly fifty essays and reviews written over Clarke's long career he demonstrates that he is an astute and provocative literary critic as well Having grown up in Dublin when the excitement of the Irish Literary Revival was still running high Clarke knew many of the principal figures of that movement personally and his readings of Yeats Joyce Synge O'Casey Lady Gregory George Moore and others enjoy the advantages of an insider's point of view Moreover committed in his own poetry to the basic assumption that fuelled the Literary Revival that the most productive course for Irish literature lay in the direction not of England but of Ireland Clarke in his criticism provides a way of understanding and judging the Revival's major writers in terms of their relationships to Ireland's rich literary and cultural traditions At the same time these essays call attention to a number of distinctly Irish but often overlooked writers working on the margins of the revival As Yeats observed more than once the Irish for all the contributions that they have made to modern fiction poetry and drama have fallen somewhat short in the genre of literary criticism Austin Clarke's essays and reviews many of which were written under a pseudonym and so not attributed to Clarke for years go a long way towards filling that gap Ten Thousand Scrolls Yugen Wang, 2020-10-26 The Northern Song 960-1126 was one of the most transformative periods in Chinese literary history characterized by the emergence of printing and an ensuing proliferation of books The poet Huang Tingjian 1045-1105 writing at the height of this period both defined and was defined by these changes The first focused study on the cultural consequences of printing in Northern Song China this book examines how the nascent print culture shaped the poetic theory and practice of Huang Tingjian and the Jiangxi School of Poetry he founded Author Yugen Wang argues that at the core of Huang and the Jiangxi School's search for poetic methods was their desire to find a new way of reading and writing that could effectively address the changed literary landscape of the eleventh century Wang chronicles the historical and cultural negotiation Huang and his colleagues were conducting as they responded to the new book culture and opens new ground for investigating the literary interpretive and hermeneutical effects of printing This book should be of interest not only to scholars and readers of classical Chinese poetry but to anyone concerned with how the material interacts with the intellectual and how technology has influenced our conception and practice of reading and writing throughout history
