Monitoring Service, 1974-10 Good Housekeeping , 1923 Nation-branding in Practice Kristin Anabel Eggeling, 2020-04-29 This book investigates the political implications of country promotion through practices of nation branding by drawing on contemporary examples from the sports urban development and higher education sector in Kazakhstan and Qatar Nation branding has emerged as a central practice of international politics where it is commonly understood as a vain superficial selling technique with little political salience Drawing on shared insights from practice theory and constructivist notions of nationalism identity and power this book challenges this reading and instead argues that nation branding is neither neutral nor primarily economically motivated but inherently politicised and tied to the legitimation of current political regimes The starting point for the analysis is a range of everyday practices and sites long ignored by international relations scholars In particular the book traces how the political leadership in Kazakhstan and Qatar have used participation in the international sports circuit spectacular urban development and the construction of world class universities to first produce and then stabilize new ideas about their state Providing a new analytical perspective on nation branding this book will be of interest to students and scholars of Middle Eastern and Central Asian studies International Relations and Cultural and Political Geography
