

Vitruvian Man Meets the Scientific Method Writing and Testing Appropriate Hypotheses

Leonardo da Vinci's drawing, Vitruvian Man, shows how the proportions of the human body fit perfectly into a circle and a square. This diagram by Leonardo da Vinci is an illustration of "Vitruvian Theory." According to Vitruvian Theory, the dimensions that describe our knowledge (our words) should fit snugly in the square that is our body. Right? In this activity, you will explore the legitimacy of "Vitruvian Theory" by developing appropriate hypotheses.

1. Hypotheses are general statements that are all observations or events for scientific experiments. A hypothesis is generally a test statement. Formulated by prediction with generally scientific or theoretical basis using the given statement. For example:

- (i) If we use blue and red flower electrolyte is added, after about 2 weeks a divided having with a white color, it will turn.
- (ii) If increasing physical activity (exercise) person or have relative and few people, then it should lower weight (decrease) of their body.

Formulated hypothesis contains both a dependent variable and independent variable. The independent variable is the one that you change, while dependent variable is the one you observe and measure or collect data. Formulate a hypothesis that says "If the temperature is decreased then the liquid will not freeze (water evaporate) fast enough to separate it". In this example, temperature is the independent variable because the temperature is being manipulated. During the collection process the color is used to check dependent variable (water).

PURPOSE

Students will gain understanding of hypothesis regarding "Vitruvian Theory" and related problems. In that it yields all observations or hypotheses concerning observations, hypothesis and related topics.
