Symbols, the News Magazines and Martin Luther King Richard Lentz, 1999-03-01 More than two decades after his death Martin Luther King Jr remains America's preeminent symbol of the civil rights movement In the early years of the movement King advocated a policy of nonviolent resistance to the racism ingrained in American society In later years however King adopted a more militant stance toward racial and other forms of injustice In this innovative book Richard Lentz considers King as a cultural symbol from the Montgomery bus boycott of 1955-1956 to the Poor People's Campaign which King helped organize shortly before his assassination in 1968 In particular Lentz examines the ways the three major news weeklies Newsweek Time and U S News World Report presented King to their readers It is primarily through media institutions that Americans shape and interpret their values Newsweek Time and U S News though representing different shadings of political ideology ranging from left of center to conservative were all aimed at the same audience middle class Americans Therefore their influence on the nation's values during a period of enormous social upheaval was significant In the mid 1960s when King shifted from reform to radicalism the news magazines were thrust into what Lentz calls a crisis of Symbols because King no longer fit the symbolic mold the magazines had created for him Lentz investigates how the magazines responded to this crisis discussing the ways in which their analyses of King shifted over time and the means they employed to create a new symbolic image that made sense of King's radicalization for readers This is an important perceptive study of Martin Luther King Jr's career and an astute critical analysis of the reporting practices of the news media in the modern era Media Representations of Retail Work in America Brittany R.
