not alone Digital age pundits warn that as our appetite for books dwindles so too do the virtues in which printed bound objects once trained us the willpower to focus on a sustained argument the curiosity to look beyond the day's news the willingness to be alone The shelves of the world's great libraries though tell a more complicated story Examining the wear and tear on the books that they contain English professor Leah Price finds scant evidence that a golden age of reading ever existed From the dawn of mass literacy to the invention of the paperback most readers already skimmed and multitasked Print era doctors even forbade the very same silent absorption now recommended as a cure for electronic addictions The evidence that books are dying proves even scarcer In encounters with librarians booksellers and activists who are reinventing old ways of reading Price offers fresh hope to bibliophiles and literature lovers alike Winner of the Phi Beta Kappa Christian Gauss Award 2020

Romanticism, Self-Canonization, and the Business of Poetry Michael Gamer, 2017-02-17 This is the first book to examine how Romantic writers transformed poetic collections to reach new audiences In a series of case studies Michael Gamer shows Romantic poets to be fundamentally social authors working closely with booksellers intimately involved in literary production and resolutely concerned with current readers even as they presented themselves as disinterested artists writing for posterity Exploding the myth of Romantic poets as naive unworldly or unconcerned with the practical aspects of literary production this study shows them instead to be engaged with intellectual property profit and loss and the power of reprinting to reshape literary reputation Gamer offers a fresh perspective on how we think about poetic revision placing it between aesthetic and economic registers and foregrounding the centrality of poetic collections rather than individual poems to the construction of literary careers
