QUESTION

My 10-year-old son has been diagnosed with a urinary tract infection (UTI). He has been taking antibiotics for 5 days, but he still has pain when he urinates. What should I do?

ANSWER

Urinary tract infections are common in children. They can be caused by bacteria that enter the urinary tract through the urethra. Symptoms include pain when urinating, frequent urination, and cloudy or bloody urine. Antibiotics are usually prescribed to treat UTIs. If your son has been taking antibiotics for 5 days and still has pain, it is important to contact his doctor. The doctor may want to check if the antibiotics are working or if there is another problem. It is also important to make sure your son is drinking plenty of water to help flush out the bacteria.
