

Significant savings and increases in the level of services for patients with depression and posttraumatic stress disorder will be realized. Specific evidence of savings actually are applied to local needs for the program and resources are shifted between three programs: primary, self-help, community resources, and the program follows the state process.

Table 1 is a table (page 4) of experimental results as described, and also includes an interesting theoretical statement based on the evidence and analysis for the subject testing application. However, looking across most of the rows for interesting evidence and some will see that the testing experimental conditions are not consistent, or in contrast, with the data reported in the testing Table 1.2. Thus, the most consistent statement that can
