Aydede,2023-09-22 Machine Learning Toolbox for Social Scientists covers predictive methods with complementary statistical tools that make it mostly self contained The inferential statistics is the traditional framework for most data analytics courses in social science and business fields especially in Economics and Finance The new organization that this book offers goes beyond standard machine learning code applications providing intuitive backgrounds for new predictive methods that social science and business students can follow The book also adds many other modern statistical tools complementary to predictive methods that cannot be easily found in econometrics textbooks nonparametric methods data exploration with predictive models penalized regressions model selection with sparsity dimension reduction methods nonparametric time series predictions graphical network analysis algorithmic optimization methods classification with imbalanced data and many others This book is targeted at students and researchers who have no advanced statistical background but instead coming from the tradition of inferential statistics The modern statistical methods the book provides allows it to be effectively used in teaching in the social science and business fields Key Features The book is structured for those who have been trained in a traditional statistics curriculum There is one long initial section that covers the differences in estimation and prediction for people trained for causal analysis The book develops a background framework for Machine learning applications from Nonparametric methods SVM and NN simple enough without too much detail It s self sufficient Nonparametric time series predictions are new and covered in a separate section Additional sections are added Penalized Regressions Dimension Reduction Methods and Graphical Methods have been increasing in their popularity in social sciences

Assessment of Fuel Economy Technologies for Light-Duty Vehicles National Research Council,Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences,Board on Energy and Environmental Systems,Committee on the Assessment of Technologies for Improving Light-Duty Vehicle Fuel Economy,2011-06-03 Various combinations of commercially available technologies could greatly reduce fuel consumption in passenger cars sport utility vehicles minivans and other light duty vehicles without compromising vehicle performance or safety Assessment of Technologies for Improving Light Duty Vehicle Fuel Economy estimates the potential fuel savings and costs to consumers of available technology combinations for three types of engines spark ignition gasoline compression ignition diesel and hybrid According to its estimates adopting the full combination of improved technologies in medium and large cars and pickup trucks with spark ignition engines could reduce fuel consumption by 29 percent at an additional cost of 2 200 to the consumer Replacing spark ignition engines with diesel engines and components would yield fuel savings of about 37 percent at an added cost of approximately 5 900 per vehicle and replacing spark ignition engines with hybrid engines and components would reduce fuel consumption by 43 percent at an increase of 6 000 per vehicle The book focuses on fuel consumption the amount of fuel consumed in a given driving distance because energy savings are directly related to the amount of fuel used In contrast fuel economy measures how far a vehicle will travel with a gallon of fuel Because fuel consumption data indicate money saved on fuel purchases and reductions in carbon dioxide emissions the book finds that vehicle stickers should provide consumers with fuel consumption data in addition to fuel economy information
