

UNIT VII: WS 2b Quantitative Bar Graphs and Problems

For WS 2b student information:

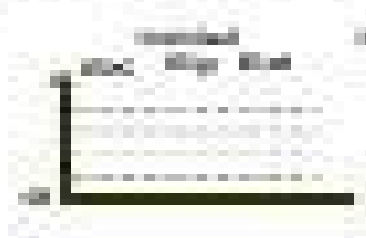

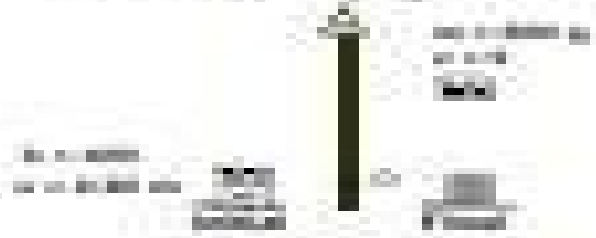

1. Know what the graphs show. Do you see any obvious errors? (Does the system of 20 questions correspond to 1000 J?)
2. Consider what you can predict about the bar graphs without actually counting.
3. Subfigure labels and descriptions (presented at the beginning of each subfigure) should be clearly visible and legible.
4. A drawing with the spring hanging at 0 J is not an error. At the beginning and at the end, the spring is at 0 J.

1. Consider the following situation: a block is moving at 100 J. The energy is dissipated by friction.

1. A block is released from a spring, compressing it 10 cm. Below is a graph showing the block's energy as it moves.
