Abstract: The concept of case thinking is a teaching strategy for the further learning progress after the first lecture, when a simplified case is presented and a lecture is given. In a self-reflective way, the students are asked to think about the case. The concept of case thinking can be implemented in a variety of ways. The authors present the design of a program to guide the students and support the learning process. Additionally, case thinking is based on thoughts and shared experiences as reflected in the regular discussion of case thinking.
