World Business Directory, 1994 Standard Trade Index of Japan, 1980 Moody's Manual of Investments: American and Foreign, 1937 Contractors and Engineers Magazine, 1969 Contractors & Engineers Magazine, 1968 Plant Nutrient Acquisition N. Ae, J. Arihara, K. Okada, A. Srinivasan, 2013-11-11 New research reveals that plants actively acquire nutrients the acquisition process is not a passive one in which plants simply wait for dissolved nutrients to come closer to their roots In fact plants play a far more active role than once was understood to be possible in nutrient acquisition and in adaptation to problem soils This book presents an excellent overview and summary of new concepts of plant nutrient acquisition mechanisms and sets forth their practical implications in crop production The scope is wide ranging from biochemical molecular and genetic analysis of nutrient acquisition to global nutritional problems Especially noteworthy are the sections on the cell apoplast phosphorus solubilizing organisms and direct uptake of macro organic molecules With contributions by leading scientists worldwide the book provides an invaluable resource for researchers in plant and environmental sciences and in agronomy and other branches of agriculture

Towards a New Cognitive Neuroscience:

Modeling Natural Brain Dynamics Klaus Gramann, Tzyy-Ping Jung, Daniel P. Ferris, Chin-Teng Lin, Scott Makeig, 2014-10-03 Decades of brain imaging experiments have revealed important insights into the architecture of the human brain and the detailed anatomic basis for the neural dynamics supporting human cognition. However, technical restrictions of traditional brain imaging approaches including functional magnetic resonance tomography (fMRI), positron emission tomography (PET), and magnetoencephalography (MEG) severely limit participants' movements during experiments. As a consequence, our knowledge of the neural basis of human cognition is rooted in a dissociation of human cognition from what is arguably its foremost and certainly its evolutionarily most determinant function: organizing our behavior so as to optimize its consequences in our complex, multi-scale and ever-changing environment. The concept of natural cognition therefore should not be separated from our fundamental experience and role as embodied agents acting in a complex, partly unpredictable world. To gain new insights into the brain dynamics supporting natural cognition, we must overcome restrictions of traditional brain imaging technology. First, the sensors used must be lightweight and mobile to allow monitoring of brain activity during free participant movements. New hardware technology for electroencephalography (EEG) and near-infrared spectroscopy (NIRS) allows recording electrical and hemodynamic brain activity while participants are freely moving. New data-driven analysis approaches must allow separation of signals arriving at the sensors from the brain and from non-brain sources (neck muscles, eyes, heart, the electrical environment, etc.). Independent component analysis (ICA) and related blind source separation methods allow separation of brain activity from non-brain activity from data recorded during experimental paradigms that stimulate natural cognition. Imaging the precisely timed, distributed brain dynamics that support all forms of our motivated actions and interactions in both laboratory and real-world settings requires new modes of data capture and of data processing. Synchronously recording participants' motor behavior, brain activity, and other physiology as well as their physical environment and external events may be termed mobile brain/body imaging (MoBI). Joint multi-stream analysis of recorded MoBI data is a major conceptual, mathematical, and data processing challenge. This Research Topic is one result of the first international MoBI meeting in Delmenhorst, Germany, in September 2013. During an intense workshop, researchers from all over the world presented their projects and discussed new technological developments and challenges of this new imaging approach. Several of the presentations are compiled in this Research Topic that we hope may inspire new research using the MoBI paradigm to investigate natural cognition by recording and analyzing the brain dynamics and behavior of participants performing a wide range of naturally motivated actions and interactions. Modern Materials
