Global Perspectives on Recognising Non-formal and Informal Learning Madhu Singh, 2015-06-05 This book deals with the relevance of recognition and validation of non formal and informal learning education and training the workplace and society In an increasing number of countries it is at the top of the policy and research agenda ranking among the possible ways to redress the glaring lack of relevant academic and vocational qualifications and to promote the development of competences and certification procedures which recognise different types of learning including formal non formal and informal learning The aim of the book is therefore to present and share experience expertise and lessons in such a way that enables its effective and immediate use across the full spectrum of country contexts whether in the developing or developed world It examines the importance of meeting institutional and political requirements that give genuine value to the recognition of non formal and informal learning it shows why recognition is important and clarifies its usefulness and the role it serves in education working life and voluntary work it emphasises the importance of the coordination interests motivations trust and acceptance by all stakeholders The volume is also premised on an understanding of a learning society in which all social and cultural groups irrespective of gender race social class ethnicity mental health difficulties are entitled to quality learning throughout their lives Overall the thrust is to see the importance of recognising non formal and informal learning as part of the larger movement for re directing education and training for change This change is one that builds on an equitable society and economy and on sustainable development principles and values such as respect for others respect for difference and diversity exploration and dialogue

Fresh Perspectives on Later Life Learning Brian Findsen, 2018-10-29 Over the last decade there has been a resurgence of interest in what adults learn in their later years often described as beyond 65 and how this learning is linked to current personal social and global issues This learning commonly occurs in informal ways as seniors go about their daily lives This kind of informal learning can be supplemented by non formal education via participation in planned learning as members of organizations and less frequently in formal education structures such as universities This book highlights how older people are learning in a myriad of ways and conditions It covers everything from individualistic learning through to national issues of older adult education Fresh perspectives are provided on biographical insights into retirement and higher education how older people generate know how in the company of others and in cross cultural aspects such as Chinese elders in Hong Kong and M ori seniors in Aotearoa New Zealand In addition the links between health and learning are explored as well as the commitment universities in three countries have made to become age friendly This book was originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Lifelong Education

Learning Inclusion in a Digital Age Stephen Dobson, Brit Svoen, Gabriella Agrusti, Pip Hardy, 2024-02-22 This open access book considers how inclusive learning wellbeing and active citizenship can be encouraged taught learnt and supported in a digital world The book poses and seeks to address three questions How can governments and intergovernmental organisations support learning inclusion and active citizenship How can the education sector and public private enterprises support learning inclusion and active citizenship How can professionals and communities work with vulnerable adults who are disadvantaged in a participatory empowering manner The Examples discussed in the book draw on the experiences of adult refugees and migrants as well as people who may experience disadvantage and or discrimination as a result of their social economic political cultural religious physical mental age or gender related status One methodological pillar in this work is the development of skills in digital storytelling and digital stories creation for personal community and professional purposes Conceptually and of interest for researcher and policy makers at local national and transnational levels this book brings together a number of related concepts to generate innovative understanding and practices of applied relevance in the age of the pandemic and its aftermath      Multilingual Testing and Assessment Gessica De

Angelis,2021-09-06 The field of multilingual testing and assessment has grown rapidly in recent years due to the widespread need to integrate immigrant populations into mainstream education and to provide fair and equitable forms of assessment for all students However a continuing emphasis on bilingual students has created a significant gap in testing and assessment research This book addresses the need for research and guidance on testing multilingual students at its heart is the difference between designing multilingual tests and testing multilingual individuals The author introduces an integrated approach to testing and assessment a flexible approach that combines information about multilingual learners knowledge skills and abilities with information about their language background and living environment The book provides an overview of existing research conducted with multilingual populations provides guidelines for test writers teachers and educators that outline the steps involved in the design administration scoring and interpretation of tests for multiple language speakers and demonstrates how to use the integrated approach to testing and assessment in a multilingual educational context

Essential Readings in International and Comparative Adult Education Jost Reischmann,2021-06-01 Often in international comparative studies it is difficult to refer to older basic texts because they are hidden in old publications difficult to locate This book makes a selection of such old but essential texts available and wants to document the long history of the international comparative perspective Standing on the shoulder of giants allows not only a grounded look back but hopefully also a reliable and experience based look in the future The editor of this book Jost Reischmann Prof em Bamberg University Germany has a long history in international and comparative adult education He presented papers on conferences around the world from San Diego USA to Seoul Korea When the International Society for Comparative Adult Education ISCAE was founded in 1992 he became the first president and developed this society over many years We hope this new book will help old timers and new comers to contribute to the enriching world of international comparative adult education      Perspectives on Lifelong Learning and Global Citizenship Sarah Stanlick,Whitney Szmodis,2022-09-06 This book lays the groundwork for the future of global citizenship and it discusses where we are now where to go from here and how all of this fits into a lifelong learning context It incorporates case studies meta narratives and empirical studies to support cosmopolitanism through a lifelong learning lens and is a must read for educators activists non governmental organizations civil society and community organizations The framing for this book is with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goal 4 in mind ensuring inclusive and equitable quality education and promoting lifelong learning opportunities for all with the intent that all learners will acquire the knowledge skills and attitudes necessary to promote sustainable lifestyles human rights gender equality promotion of a culture of peace and non violence global citizenship and appreciation of cultural diversity and of culture s contribution to sustainable development UN Sustainable Development Goal target 4.7 It is through this lens that this book showcases the work of researchers practitioners civil society and thought leaders in global citizenship for lifelong learning While this tension between nationalism and cosmopolitanism exists the wheels of globalization still turn and shape our local national and global connections Through this exploration this book lifts up examples of global citizenship education done well across the age spectrum and in a variety of contexts The binding factor is the core values ethics and moral structure of a world in collaboration toward its larger human and ecological thriving It unpacks complex topics such as ethical and cultural relativism accountability and responsibility in a global world decolonial education and unmaking ideas of development and ethical models for community based global learning and engagement What voices are missing in the discussion of global learning and global citizenship education

Knowledge and Change in African Universities Michael Cross, amasa ndofirepi, 2017-01-28 Besides the ongoing concern with the epistemological and theoretical hegemony of the West in African academic practice the book aims at understanding how knowledge is produced and controlled through the interplay of the politics of knowledge and current intellectual discourses in universities in Africa In this regard the book calls for African universities to relocate from the position of object to subject in order to gain a form of liberated epistemological voice more responsive to the social and economic complexities of the continent In itself this is a critical expos of contemporary practices in knowledge advancement in the continent Broadly the book addresses the following questions How can African universities reinvent knowledge production and dissemination in the face of the dominant Eurocentricism so pervasive and characteristic of academic practice in Africa to enhance their relevance to the contexts in which they operate How can such change particularly at knowledge production and distribution levels be undertaken without falling into an intellectual and discursive ghettoization in the global context What then is the role of academics policy makers and curriculum and program designers in dealing with biases and distortions to integrate policies knowledge and pedagogy that reflect current cultural diversity both local and global Against this backdrop while some contributions in this book argue that emancipatory epistemic voice in African universities is not yet born or it is struggling with little success many dissenting voices charge that if Africans do not take responsibility and construct knowledge strategies for their own emancipation who will

Africa and the Sustainable Development Goals Maano Ramutsindela, David Mickler, 2019-06-13 The book draws upon the expertise and international research collaborations forged by the Worldwide Universities Network Global Africa Group to critically engage with the intersection in theory and practice of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and Africa's development agendas and needs. Further, it argues that and demonstrates how the SDGs should be understood as an aspirational blueprint for development with multiple meanings that are situated in dynamic and contested terrains. As the SDGs have substantial implications for development policy and resourcing at both the macro and micro levels, their relevance is not only context specific but should also be assessed in terms of the aspirations and needs of ordinary citizens across the continent. Drawing on analyses and evidence from both the natural and social sciences, the book demonstrates that progress towards the SDGs must meet demands for improving human well-being under diverse and challenging socio-economic, political, and environmental conditions. Examples include those from the mining industry, public health, employment, and the media. In closing, it highlights how international collaboration in the form of research networks can enhance the production of critical knowledge on and engagement with the SDGs in Africa.
