Unethical Conduct In The Namibian Public Service:

The International Ombudsman Yearbook, Volume 3 (1999) International Ombudsman Institute, Linda C. Reif, 2021-10-18
The International Ombudsman Yearbook is the only publication devoted to ombudsman issues. The public sector ombudsman is now found at all levels of government in many countries around the world both in established and consolidating democracies. The ombudsman is an independent office traditionally appointed by the legislative branch to investigate poor administration of government. More recently some ombudsman offices have been given human rights protection responsibilities. The International Ombudsman Yearbook contains articles written from legal or public administration perspectives which address issues of interest to the contemporary ombudsman and to all persons with an interest in the institution. Compiled and edited by the International Ombudsman Institute, the organization composed of over 130 ombudsman members located worldwide, the Yearbook will be of interest to lawyers, scholars, ombudsman office personnel and government entities wherever ombudsman offices are located or contemplated. Social and Ethical Issues of Global Pandemics Masake Pilisano Harris, Richard Obinna Iroanya, 2023-11-02. The COVID 19 pandemic exposed the weaknesses inherent in the social infrastructure of African states, especially healthcare and social security systems. African states were characterized by a high level of unpreparedness with scientific and technological insufficiency to address the pandemic emergency. This in turn worsened the impact of COVID 19 on all fronts; thus many African states experienced issues with high mortality rate, rampant job losses and arbitrary and erratic state responses. Social and Ethical Issues of Global Pandemics: A Southern African Perspective edited by Masake Pilisano Harris and Richard Obinna Iroanya argues that pandemics deepen inequality margins with grave social, legal and ethical consequences in Southern Africa and beyond. Through empirical and theoretical research, Harris and Iroanya analyze the regulations that were passed during COVID 19 and evaluate the impact and legality of these regulations. The contributors provide information that will help authorities and society appreciate the extent of the effects of the pandemic and its control measures on people's ways of life in the post COVID era and beyond.

The study examined the effects of Public Service Reform in the appointments of management cadres in the Public Service of Namibia from 1990 to 2005 Specific focus was given to the Office of the Prime Minister the core institution in the management of the Central Government operations The study found that the need for a new post colonial dispensation compatible with the requirements of statehood prompted the structuring of Government institutions The Research Question explicitly sought to explain the extent to which the Post independent Public Service Reform initiatives have transformed the structures and reoriented the government institutions to adopt the New Public Management principles which can ensure efficiency and effective delivery of services The legislative frameworks particularly the Constitution of Namibia and the Public Service Act 1995 Act 13 of 1995 have provided the bases for analyzing the Recruitment Policy in the Public Service of Namibia A systematic semi structured interview with respondents has significantly unveiled a highly structured institution with complex mechanisms of planning and executing programmes within managerial frameworks The empirical research conducted for the study explored the political economic social and historical significance of Public Service Reform and indeed produced sufficient evidence confirming the adoption of new ways of improving performance and of enhancing accountability of the civil servants Qualitative research methods were employed to evaluate the participants daily life experience for the purpose of describing the Public Service Reform from the insider s perspective The findings show that the traditional culture of administration is evidently being phased out and the New Public Management is gradually taking root The Merit System has given way to new practices without loss of values that are generic to the selection of the right type of people for the meritocratic Public Service Nevertheless the current managerial reform initiatives appear to be superficial taking a pragmatic approach with no serious provisions for structural change Options for Namibia should include adopting structural changes that responds to its social economic and political conditions in the face of globalisation The study has ultimately recommended Competency Management as the best approach to achieve a meritocratic and professional civil service

Employment Policies and Practices in the Ministry of Home Affairs in Namibia J. N. Kafidi,2002 The study examines the employment policies and practices with specific references to the recruitment selection and placement in the Namibian Police Department Since the Public Service Charter of the Republic of Namibia requires public servants to promote a culture of fairness transparency and accountability it seems important to examine the recruitment selection and placement process to identify the areas of malpractices and the manner in which the recruitment process is conducted within the Department of Police The study focuses on the recruitment process since Namibia received its independence in 1990 To put the study in the right context the general overview of the Namibian Public Service is outlined to give more information regarding its establishment and on how the Department of Police relates to other public institutions such as the Public Service Commission Namibia and the United Nations Convention Against Corruption Institute for Public Policy Research (Namibia),2013 Don Lizaan IPPR 3 copies
