

A Rose for Emily Lesson Plan

Materials and Time:

1. Roughly 2 to 3 hours of class time.
 2. A Rose for Emily text by William Faulkner and A Rose for Emily Worksheet.
 3. Graphic organizers for the literary terms being taught and Peer Evaluation Handout.
 4. Optional: Projector for Powerpoints.

Objectives:

1. Students will be able to identify the elements of Historical Fiction.
 2. Students will be able to identify and apply literary terms related to characterization and imagery.
 3. Students will practice reading fluency.
 4. Students will practice higher level thinking skills: predicting, inference, analysis, synthesis.
 - Note: This story is great to use to teach historical fiction and imagery, but can also be used with most of the other literary Powerpoints or graphic organizers if you are focusing on a different literary element.

Instruction:

1. Defining Terms – Use the Characterization or Irony and Ambiguity Powerpoint (found in the "Powerpoints" folder) to introduce terms and definitions, while students take notes. If no projector is available, write the terms on the board.
 2. Anticipatory Set – Ask students to discuss in pairs or small groups. Ask students to discuss with peers how they think society has changed over the past 50 years. While they can discuss all aspects, ask them to try to focus on values and behavior. You may ask them to define what it means to be "old-fashioned." After a few minutes, facilitate a whole-class discussion and allow students to share their thoughts with the class.
 3. Preview Text (only applies if using resource with a textbook or anthology) – Have students preview the text by looking at the title and pictures. Have them make a prediction in the "Previewing Texts" section of the worksheet. Begin filling out the "K" and "W" boxes of the K-W-L chart with the students and have them complete it on their own.
 4. Pre-reading Vocabulary – Give students the definitions for the words in the "Pre-reading Vocabulary" section of the worksheet. Do not have them write their sentences yet (that will be saved for independent practice).
 5. Guided Practice
 - a. Read the text with the students using the Oral Cloze technique. Use Choral Reading occasionally with shorter paragraphs to practice fluency.
 - i. Oral Cloze is when the instructor reads to the students and leaves out strategic words, which the class is expected to fill in. This gives students a task of accountability and encourages them to listen to the instructor's fluency and intonation. While reading, the instructor should give "hints" as to which words will be omitted by slowing down and using voice inflection. This discourages passive listening.
 - ii. Choral Reading is when the whole class reads a passage in unison. This is effective for building fluency and confidence. However, it is not recommended to read an entire text chorally, as it can be time consuming and difficult for students.
 - b. Stop to answer the questions in the "Questions for Thought" section of the worksheet accordingly.
 - i. For appropriate questions, have students use the write-pair-share technique to maximize student engagement. (Page 2 is a step-by-step instruction on how to implement an outstanding write-pair-share!) Use this strategy for inference and opinion questions rather than fact based questions.
 - ii. Discuss some questions in more depth, depending on student responses.
 6. Group Work – Have students break into groups or work in pairs to complete the Historical Analysis or Setting organizer (found in the "Graphic Organizers" folder). If you focused on a different literary element, use the appropriate graphic organizer if it is offered.

Independent Practice:

1. Have students complete the "Literary Focus" section of the worksheet on their own.
 2. Have students complete the writing assignment in the "Critical Thinking" section of the worksheet on their own.
 3. Have students go back to the "Pre-reading Vocabulary" section of the worksheet and write sentences correctly using the vocabulary words in context.

Homework/Assessment:

1. Any of the independent practice activities can be assigned as homework. They can also serve as assessments.

Reflection:

1. The next day have students conduct peer evaluations of the writing assignment in pairs or groups using the Peer Evaluation Sheet (found in the "Graphic Organizers" folder).
 2. Have students complete the "L" box from the K-W-L chart.
 3. Review literary terms.
