Barton Palmer, 2008 To Kill a Mockingbird is an immensely important work of literature studied worldwide Literature and film students will find plenty of material to support their courses on how the film versions provide different readings of the original text Focusing on several film versions and adaptations the book discusses the literary work in its historical context its key themes and dominant readings how it has been adapted for screen and how adaptations have changed our reading of the original text R Barton Palmer is a Calhoun Lemon Professor of Literature and a professor of film screenwriting and British literature at Clemson University in South Carolina He is the author of many books on literature and film Microcomputers in Education, 1984 The New Republic Herbert David Croly, 1966-07 The Learning Encounter Margaret L. Clark, Ella A. Erway, Lee Beltzer, 1971 Not Light, but Fire Matthew Kay, 2023-10-10 Do you feel prepared to initiate and facilitate meaningful productive dialogues about race in your classroom Are you looking for practical strategies to engage with your students Inspired by Frederick Douglass's abolitionist call to action it is not light that is needed but fire Matthew Kay has spent his career learning how to lead students through the most difficult race conversations Kay not only makes the case that high school classrooms are one of the best places to have those conversations but he also offers a method for getting them right providing candid guidance on How to recognize the difference between meaningful and inconsequential race conversations How to build conversational safe spaces not merely declare them How to infuse race conversations with urgency and purpose how to thrive in the face of unexpected challenges How administrators might equip teachers to thoughtfully engage in these conversations With the right blend of reflection and humility Kay asserts teachers can make school one of the best venues for young people to discuss race
