

Does your Lawn Mower start then stop?

Common Problems and Solutions

It's a terrible feeling when your lawn mower won't stay running. If your lawnmower starts then dies, don't write its obituary quite yet. Repair Clinic can help you breathe new life back into your carburetor and get those blades spinning again. Work your way down the list of causes below to find the problem. We take a systematic approach to diagnostics, so you know you're buying the right part to make the right repair.

1

Clogged Carburetor

Your carburetor may be clogged. If fuel is left in the Lawn Mower for a long period of time, it can become sticky, clogging the carburetor. Try cleaning with Carburetor Cleaner.

2

Fuel Cap "Vapor Lock"

If your fuel cap vent becomes clogged, air will not be able to enter the tank and a vacuum will occur, stopping the flow of fuel. Try loosening the cap and then starting the engine. If the engine stays running, the cap is likely clogged and should be replaced.

3

Old/Bad Gasoline

If gasoline is left in the tank for long periods of time, portions can evaporate leaving behind a thick, sticky substance leading to clogs.

4

Worn Spark Plug

Be sure to check your spark plug for signs of wear. If the porcelain insulator is cracked or there is heavy carbon build up on the electrode, the spark plug should be replaced. Use a spark plug tester to be sure.

When buying new parts, remember to search by your Lawn Mower's specific model number to ensure your part fits and works as intended.
