André Bazin's Film Theory Angela Dalle Vacche, 2020. Through metaphors and allusions to art, science, and religion, André Bazin's writings on the cinema explore a simple yet profound question: what is a human? For the famous French film critic, a human is simultaneously a rational animal and an irrational being. Bazin's idea of the cinema is a mind machine where the ethical implications have priority over aesthetic issues. And in its ability to function as an art form for the masses, cinema is the only medium that can address an audience at the individual and community levels simultaneously. The audience sees the same film, but each individual relates to the narrative in a different way. In principle, cinema can unsettle our routines in productive ways and expand our sense of belonging to a much larger picture. By arguing that this dissident Catholic's worldview is anti-anthropocentric, Angela Dalle Vacche concludes that André Bazin's idea of the cinema recapitulates the histories of biological evolution and modern technology inside our consciousness. Through the projection of recorded traces of the world onto a brain-like screen, the cinema can open viewers up to self-interrogation and empathy towards Otherness. Bazin was neither a spiritualist nor an animist or a pantheist; yet his film theory leads also to ideas of a more cosmological persuasion through editing and camera movement. Cinema explores our belonging to a vast universe that extends from the microbes of the microscope to the stars of the telescope. Such ideas of connectedness coupled with Bazin's well-known emphasis of realism form the foundation for his film theory's embrace of Italian neorealism. Choosing to avoid a quantitative naturalism based on accumulation of details, Bazin's theory instead promotes the kind of cinema that celebrates perceptual displacement, the objectification of human behavior, and one's own critical self-awareness.

L'eau, enjeux politiques et théologiques, de Sumer à la Bible Stéphanie Anthonioz, 2009-10-23. This book investigates a corpus of royal inscriptions and literary texts with special emphasis on those that are mythological and biblical, stretching over several millennia from the early days of Sumer to the Biblical period in order to determine the ways in which the concept of water was used in particular, the way it functions in the political and theological ideology of the time. Three literary motifs are the object of a careful study: the crossing of water, the flood, and the water of abundance. Though their study shows diversity in evolution, transmission, and reception, it appears that their function is common at the heart of the Mesopotamian political
