The Carbon Age Eric Roston, 2010-08-09 What do bubbles in a soft drink a bullet proof vest a plastic chair and our DNA have in common Carbon It is and forever has been the ubiquitous architect of life and civilization forming the chemical backbone of every living creature And yet when we hear the word today it is more often than not in a crisis situation carbon dioxide emissions are destroying the ozone layer and warming the planet the volatile Middle East explodes atop its stores of hydrocarbons carbohydrates threaten obesity and diabetics Carbon thus sustains us and threatens us in equal measure Eric Roston illuminates this essential element in all its forms cleverly recreating the intricate carbon cycle on the page by tracing its journey from the Big Bang to Earth and its extraordinary infiltration of this planet and in time influence on humankind and civilization Evoking its ubiquity more than 99% of all 31 million known substances contain carbon Roston chronicles the ways we have used it often to surprising and sometimes to catastrophic effect having sped up the carbon cycle in the last two centuries we are now attempting to wrestle Earth's geochemical cycle back from the brink Blending the latest science with original reporting Roston makes us aware as never before of the seminal impact carbon has and has had on our lives

Global Ecology Vaclav Smil, 2003-09-02 The magnitude and rapidity of global environmental change threatens the perpetuation of life on Earth Many aspects of this crisis are familiar to us the destruction of tropical rainforests the hole in the Antarctic ozone desertification soil erosion yet we avoid the underlying challenge of a rapidly deteriorating ecological system and the breadth and complexity of responses demanded Integrating an analysis of both social and environmental needs the book explores the premises and problems of different paths towards global management With its emphasis on flexible response Global Ecology furthers our understanding of biospheric change and of our abilities and weaknesses in managing the transition to a sustainable society

Awareness Environmental Education -X Dr. M.P. Mishra, Awareness Environmental Building Integrated Photovoltaic Thermal Systems Basant Agrawal, Gopal Nath Tiwari, 2010-11-01 Solar photovoltaics is one of the most promising renewable energy technologies producing electricity on site directly from the solar radiation without harming the environment and depletion of materials The Building Integrated Photovoltaic Thermal BIPVT system is a technology which merges PV and thermal systems simultaneously providing both electric and thermal energy Through this combination more energy is generated per unit surface area in comparison to the standalone photovoltaics system Benefits of the BIPVT system include significantly increased electrical performance faster payback than traditional systems negligible impact on the environment and the product is easier and less expensive to install with low maintenance required This book describes the recent developments in PV technologies solar radiation available on the earth various BIPVT systems and their applications energy and exergy analysis carbondioxide migration and credit earned life cycle cost analysis and life cycle conversion efficiency Presently there is no single book which covers all the basic and the advanced concepts related to the implementation of solar energy for the passive heating and cooling of the building In addition to the basic concepts the book includes the technology advances modelling and analysis and ongoing research in the area of BIPVT Key features of book include Solar heating and cooling concepts Thermal comfort Performance analysis of BIPVT system Worldwide case studies Energy payback period Techno economics and sustainability of the system The book written by experts in the field with years of research and teaching is intended for the specialists scientists and people involved in research in the disciplines of renewable energy energy studies building energy or carbon credit For the practicing professional advanced senior or graduate student with work experience the book should be used as part of an integrative program enabling them to make deep linkages and thus better decisions in the professional world Age Determination of Young Rocks and Artifacts

Günther A. Wagner,2013-06-29 Dating the Quaternary which covers approximately the last 2 million years has experienced considerable progress over the past few decades On the one hand this resulted from the necessity to obtain a valid age concept for this period which had seen tremendous environmental changes and the advent of the genus Homo On the other hand instrumental improvements such as the introduction of highly sensitive analytical techniques gave rise to physical and chemical innovations in the field of dating This rapid methodological development is still in full progress The broad spectrum of chronometric methods applicable to young rocks and artifacts also becomes increasingly intricate to the specialist Hence it is my goal to present a comprehensive state of the art sum mary of these methods This book is essentially designed as an aid for scientists who feel a demand for dating tasks falling into this period i e Quaternary geologists and archaeologists in the broadest sense Since it has been developed from a course of lectures for students of geological and archaeological sciences held at the University of Heidelberg it certainly shall serve as an introduction for students of these disciplines

Atmospheric Carbon Dioxide and the Global Carbon Cycle John R. Trabalka,1986 Measures for Measure Mike Leeder,2020-11-05 An illustrated explanation of the geological background to the first Industrial Revolution that originated in eighteenth century Britain The Climate of History in a Planetary Age Dipesh Chakrabarty,2024-05-31 For the past decade historian Dipesh Chakrabarty has been one of the most influential scholars addressing the meaning of climate change Climate change he argues upends long standing ideas of history modernity and globalization The burden of The Climate of History in a Planetary Age is to grapple with what this means and to confront humanities scholars with ideas they have been reluctant to reconsider from the changed nature of human agency to a new acceptance of universals Chakrabarty argues that we must see ourselves from two perspectives at once the planetary and the global This distinction is central to Chakrabarty's work the globe is a human centric construction while a planetary perspective intentionally decenters the human Featuring wide ranging excursions into historical and philosophical literatures The Climate of History in a Planetary Age boldly considers how to frame the human condition in troubled times As we open ourselves to the implications of the Anthropocene few writers are as likely as Chakrabarty to shape our understanding of the best way forward and metahumanism and a second part of the book unfolds a radical critique of the Planetary Holocaust Book 6 unfolds metaformance aesthetics and metahuman politics including the theory of metaformativity the ontohacking pragmatics and a choral Dionysian ontology where the author also discusses at length his own techniques and art projects involving a radical challenge to human supremacism to face the extinction challenge now threatening all life on Earth toward an Earth liberation and regeneration
