Summary:

In Laurie Ouelette and Susan Murray's piece "Reality TV: Remaking Television Culture," the elements of this new medium of entertainment are explored. Much of the exploration seems to analyze and reiterate how much this type of entertainment is new and yet it has been around since 1950. The writers examine the structure of reality programming and how it has adapted to contemporary viewing habits. The commercial implications are also examined in that these shows make a large amount of profit for a small investment. The sum of the total parts leads the reader to question not the role of television reality, but really why does it draw in so many viewers.

The concept of reality television can be seen in early television programming in the quiz shows of the 1950's. The core elements involved in reality television were: the hiring of non-actors, or "contestants", who are not in any way scripted, there is also an "unpredictable outcome" (Silverman, Rader 160), and this is what viewers tuned in for. In the case of the quiz shows there were prizes as there are in many of the current shows, but this is not a core element for reality television. The continued history of reality television's conception and growth can be seen in programs like Star Search which established the talent search genre of reality television. The same core elements of unscripted non-actors who performed in a capacity to win a prize with outcomes being unpredictable can be seen shows like in Star Search. One only needs to point to contemporary television programming to see the correlation, or perhaps the template set by Star Search, shows like American Idol, The Voice and The X Factor contain all the same core elements. Other television shows

Writing Instruction for Success in College and in the Workplace Charles A. MacArthur, Zoi A. Philippakos, 2023-12
This book describes an innovative evidence based method for preparing students for the demands of college writing called Supporting Strategic Writers SSW. The goal of SSW is to help students become independent learners who understand the value of strategies and can apply them flexibly in future courses and the workplace. The text provides genre based strategies for rhetorical analysis, planning, evaluation and revision, critical reading of sources and synthesis of sources that are part of college composition and applicable across contexts and course assignments. Equally important to the SSW approach is that students learn metacognitive strategies for goal setting, task management, progress monitoring and reflection. Instructional methods include discussion of model essays, think aloud modeling of strategies, collaborative writing, peer review and self evaluation and reflective journaling. Book Features: Integrates three critical components: strategies for critical reading and writing, metacognitive strategies to help students take control of their learning and pedagogical strategies. Provides research based approaches for teaching developmental writing courses, first year composition, summer bridge programs and first year seminars. Offers thorough explanations of the strategies and instructional methods with practical examples and support materials for instructors. Based on two years of design research and three experimental studies which found significant positive effects on writing quality and motivation with college students in developmental writing courses. Writing and Reading Connections Zoi A. Philippakos, Steve Graham, 2022-11-18 Writing skills are essential for success in the 21st century school and workplace but most classrooms devote far more time to reading instruction with writing often addressed in isolation or excluded. In this insightful professional development resource and text, leading researchers discuss why and how to integrate writing and reading instruction in grades K-12 and beyond. Contributors explore how to harness writing-reading connections to support learning in such areas as phonics and spelling, vocabulary, understanding genre and text structure and self-regulated strategy development as well as across content areas and disciplines. Special considerations in teaching emergent bilingual students and struggling literacy learners are described. User friendly features include guiding questions, classroom examples and action questions that help teachers translate the research and concepts into practice. An NCTQ Exemplary Text for Reading Instruction. Summary of Responses Commenting on the Proposed Patent Law
