Chapter 14 Objective Summary

Having been taken from their home by the police, Jennings and his younger brother Gene find themselves waiting at the police station for someone to come pick them up. Unfortunately the brothers find that they will not be leaving together. A woman from Child Welfare comes to pick Jennings up to take him to another orphanage, but she says they don't have room there for Gene, and the boys are separated.

Upon arriving at the orphanage, Jennings is not surprised to find that it is much like the other dormitories he has been to, right down to the bunk beds, group bathrooms, bars across the windows, and barbed wire across the fence. He finds that being in such a familiar setting doesn't bother him nearly as much as it used to, and decides that he must be getting used to these frequent transitions in and out of his home.

Jennings finds that this new orphanage is similar to the home of the Angels in another way when he is approached by a group of bullies who attack him. He has instant flashbacks to his fights with Dutch, and defends himself against the new bully, named Harvey. After Harvey learns that Jennings will stand up to him, the two boys become friends. Harvey is a juvenile delinquent who finds himself in New York after running away from a home in Texas.

The lady in charge of the orphanage, Mrs. Abbott, tells Jennings that his number here will be Northwestern. On his way to the dining hall, Jennings runs into a young boy named Kato. He learns that this is Kato's first time in an orphanage, and finds himself taking Kato under his wing and teaching him the fine arts of orphanage life, much like Mark did for him. Kato tells Jennings that he is at the orphanage because his father killed his mother, and then killed himself. Jennings feels sorry for Kato because "there was a life and didn't know it."

Over the next few days, Jennings teaches Kato important things, such as to not go around thinking about going home, and to always make sure he is standing behind the kid named over ahead of him – all things Mark taught him at the home of the Angels. Jennings thinks about Mark a lot and realizes his role in keeping Mark's memory alive through helping Kato – "Mark did it for me; I was close, I paid him back." Kato becomes extremely attached to Jennings, who realizes he will have to teach Kato the hardest lesson of all – not to get too attached to a single person at the orphanage. Jennings makes Kato play with other kids, a move that saddens both boys, but Jennings knows it is for the best.

One night, Jennings accidentally sees the bed, and Mrs. Abbott scolded and whips him with a strap as punishment. After Mrs. Abbott makes him spend the night standing on a table with his feet barefoot draped over his head, Jennings decides he has had enough of this orphanage and runs away. He finds his way back to the ocean border town, intending to spend the night there, but it begins snowing and Jennings realizes he can't stay outside all night. While walking around the city trying to find a place to go, Jennings finds the Whitehouse Bridge and decides to go to Martha.

On his way to find Martha and the Frasers, Jennings is picked up by two policemen who take him to the station. Somewhere the policemen know his name, and also know that the orphanage he has just run away from doesn't want him back. The policemen tell Jennings that he is now considered a juvenile delinquent and this time, he will be going to jail. One of the cops, Officer Dally, puts Jennings in
