Thinking Through Translation Jeffrey M. Green,2010-09-01 Punctuated by thoughtful wit this engaging volume of essays offers Jeffrey M Green s personal and theoretical ruminations on the profession of translation Green begins many of the essays by relating the specific techniques and problems associated with translating from Hebrew texts From this intimate perspective he forges wise reflections on such subjects as identifying and preserving the writer s voice the cultural significance of translations and their contents the research and travel that are part of a translator's everyday life and the frequent puzzles associated with the craft Green combines a contemporary frankness about the financial practical theoretical and ethical aspects of translation with an aspiration to write like a good literary critic of the old school considering the moral and spiritual implications of the translation as well as its content Thinking Through Translation shows us with eloquent honesty that translation is a delicate art and skill and presents the trade as a way of attaining insight about history the world and oneself

The End of Comparative Philosophy and the Task of Comparative Thinking Steven Burik, 2010-07-02 How do differences in language influence comparative philosophy Although the Orientalism famously described by Edward Said is rare today Steven Burik maintains that comparative philosophy often subtly privileges one tradition over another since certain conceptual schemes are so embedded in Western languages that it is difficult not to revert to them Arguing for a new approach that acknowledges how theory and practice cannot be separated in comparative philosophical endeavors Burik provides nonmetaphysical deconstructionist readings of Heidegger and Derrida and uses these to give a new reading of classical Daoism The ideas of language advanced therein can aid the project of comparative philosophy specifically and philosophies generally in trying to overcome ways of thinking that have dominated Western philosophy for twenty five hundred years and still frustrate intercultural encounters

Translating Promotional and Advertising Texts Ira Torresi, 2020-12-29 The translation of promotional and advertising texts requires the application of techniques which although they vary depending on the specific text type are all aimed at preserving their persuasive purpose This often requires in depth cultural adaptation and on occasion thorough rewriting Translating Promotional and Advertising Texts covers the key types of promotional texts including personal business to business institutional business to consumer and advertising With numerous examples from a wide variety of languages and media taken from the author's own professional experience and observations this volume is designed for use as a coursebook for classroom practice or as a handbook for self learning It also provides insight for research into promotional and advertising translation This second updated edition offers entirely new sections on self promotion in social media text analysis and tools for the cross cultural appraisal of promotional texts Revised with new examples a glossary of terms and activities and tasks on the Routledge Translation Studies Portal this is the essential text for students researchers translators and professionals working in copywriting marketing public relations or related areas

Topographies Joseph Hillis Miller, 1995 This book investigates the function of topographical names and descriptions in a variety of narratives poems and philosophical or theoretical texts primarily from the 19th and 20th centuries but including also Plato and the Bible Topics include the initiating efficacy of speech acts ethical responsibility political or legislative power the translation of theory from one topographical location to another the way topographical delineations can function as parable or allegory and the relation of personification to landscape

"I don't translate, I create!" Vanessa Drexler, 2016-01-05 I don't translate I create This is the slogan of a translation agency called Sternkopf Communications

located in Fl ha Germany The translators at this translation agency are specialized in the field of marketing and perceive creativeness their daily bread But what does this actually mean I don t translate I create Undoubtedly the translation of a text from one language into another is not an easy and straightforward process On the contrary the translator needs to invest much time and one or the other headache before a target text TT finally sounds natural fluent coherent and logical for the target audience Different possible translation solutions will have to be considered language as well as culture related equivalents often are not easily at hand etc Would it not be pleasant if machine translation MT was there to help with this process Yet despite the enormous importance of creativity in translating computer aided translation CAT tools are being used frequently by professional translators not to replace but to support the translator in their daily business CAT tools enable their users to translate in a more consistent way since they search source texts for words phrases or sentences that have already been translated before and stored in the TM so that the translator does not need to translate this text unit again from scratch Considering that this process brings about what could be called semi mechanical TTs the use of CAT tools seems to stand in stark contrast to the importance of creativity mentioned above Thus the question arises whether CAT tools influence the creative energy of translators and if this is the case whether translators regard this influence as rather positive or negative In this context it is also important to consider which fields of expertise generally demand a high degree of uniformity consistency in translations and which subject fields generally allow for a high degree of creative freedom Accordingly this paper pursues two related purposes The first is to compare five CAT tools in their degree of usability The second purpose is to identify translators perspectives on uniformity and creativity in translations with the goal to shedding light on the question whether CAT tools generally tend to positively or negatively influence the translation process on a rather linguistic than technological basis

Translation and Gender Luise Von Flotow, 2016-04-08 The last thirty years of intellectual and artistic creativity in the 20th century have been marked by gender issues Translation practice translation theory and translation criticism have also been powerfully affected by the focus on gender As a result of feminist praxis and criticism and the simultaneous emphasis on culture in translation studies translation has become an important site for the exploration of the cultural impact of gender and the gender specific influence of culture With the dismantling of universal meaning and the struggle for women s visibility in feminist work and with the interest in translation as a visible factor in cultural exchange the linking of gender and translation has created fertile ground for explorations of influence in writing rewriting and reading Translation and Gender places recent work in translation against the background of the women s movement and its critique of patriarchal language It explains translation practices derived from experimental feminist writing the development of openly interventionist translation strategies the initiative to retranslate fundamental texts such as the Bible translating as a way of recuperating writings lost in patriarchy and translation history as a means of focusing on women translators of the past

Nation, Language, and the Ethics of Translation Sandra Bermann, Michael

Wood, 2005-07-05 In recent years scholarship on translation has moved well beyond the technicalities of converting one language into another and beyond conventional translation theory. With new technologies blurring distinctions between the original and its reproductions and with globalization redefining national and cultural boundaries, translation is now emerging as a reformulated subject of lively interdisciplinary debate. Nation, Language, and the Ethics of Translation enters the heart of this debate. It covers an exceptional range of topics from simultaneous translation to legal theory, from the language of exile to the language of new nations, from the press to the cinema, and cultures and languages from contemporary Bengal to ancient Japan, from translations of Homer to the work of Don DeLillo. All twenty-two essays by leading voices, including Gayatri Spivak and the late Edward Said, are provocative and persuasive. The book's four sections—Translation as Medium and across Media, The Ethics of Translation, Translation and Difference, and Beyond the Nation—together provide a comprehensive view of current thinking on nationality and translation, one that will be widely consulted for years to come. The contributors are Jonathan E. Abel, Emily Apter, Sandra Bermann, Vilashini Cooppan, Stanley Corngold, David Damrosch, Robert Eaglestone, Stathis Gourgouris, Pierre Legrand, Jacques Lezra, Françoise Lionnet, Sylvia Molloy, Yopie Prins, Edward Said, Azade Seyhan, Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak, Henry Staten, Lawrence Venuti, Lynn Visson, Gauri Viswanathan, Samuel Weber, and Michael Wood.
