The Plate Tectonics Theory

When you blow into a balloon, the balloon expands. Its surface area also increases. As more air is added to the balloon, the balloon gets larger. Similarly, if ocean crust continually forms at mid-ocean ridges and is never destroyed, Earth's surface should be expanding. But measurements of the planet show that Earth is not getting larger. How can this be explained?

Geologists proposed a more complete theory in the late 1960s. It was called plate tectonics theory. The theory of plate tectonics states that Earth's surface is made of rigid slabs of rock, or plates, that move with respect to each other, or in relation to each other. This new theory suggested that Earth's surface, the lithosphere, is divided into large pieces of rock. These pieces are called plates. Each plate moves slowly over Earth's hot and semiplastic mantle.

The word tectonic describes the forces that shape Earth's surface and the rock structures that form as a result. Plate tectonics explains why earthquakes occur and volcanoes erupt. When plates separate on the seafloor, earthquakes result and a mid-ocean ridge forms. When plates come together, one plate can move under the other. This causes earthquakes and creates a chain of volcanoes. When plates slide past each other, earthquakes can result.
