

Essay on Cyber Bullying

In the digital era, the internet and social media have transformed how we communicate, but they have also given rise to a sinister phenomenon: cyber bullying. This essay aims to dissect the issue of cyber bullying, exploring its definition, manifestations, impacts, and potential solutions, providing a comprehensive understanding for students engaging in essay writing competitions.

Cyber Bullying

Cyber Bullying is the use of electronic communication to bully a person, typically by sending messages of an intimidating or threatening nature. Unlike traditional bullying, cyber bullying allows the perpetrator to hide behind a screen, often making them bolder in their actions and words.

The Scope and Manifestations

Cyber bullying can take many forms:

- Harassing Messages: Sending threatening or abusive texts or emails.
- Social Media Bullying: Spreading rumors or posting hurtful comments on social platforms.
- Impersonation: Creating fake profiles to ridicule or defame someone.
- Cyberstalking: Repeatedly sending messages that include threats of harm or are highly intimidating.
- Sharing Private Information: Distributing someone's personal information without consent, often to embarrass or threaten them.

Prevalence and Statistics

The prevalence of cyber bullying is alarming. Studies suggest that a significant percentage of young people have experienced cyber bullying at some point. The anonymity of the internet, the ease of spreading information, and the 24/7 nature of digital media contribute to its increasing incidence.

Encyclopedia of Adolescence Roger J.R. Levesque, 2011-09-05 The Encyclopedia of Adolescence breaks new ground as an important central resource for the study of adolescence Comprehensive in breath and textbook in depth the Encyclopedia of Adolescence with entries presented in easy to access A to Z format serves as a reference repository of knowledge in the field as well as a frequently updated conduit of new knowledge long before such information trickles down from research to standard textbooks By making full use of Springer's print and online flexibility the Encyclopedia is at the forefront of efforts to advance the field by pushing and creating new boundaries and areas of study that further our understanding of adolescents and their place in society. Substantively the Encyclopedia draws from four major areas of research relating to adolescence. The first broad area includes research relating to Self Identity and Development in Adolescence. This area covers research relating to identity from early adolescence through emerging adulthood, basic aspects of development e.g. biological, cognitive, social and foundational developmental theories. In addition, this area focuses on various types of identity: gender, sexual, civic, moral, political, racial, spiritual, religious, and so forth. The second broad area centers on Adolescents' Social and Personal Relationships. This area of research examines the nature and influence of a variety of important relationships including family, peer, friends, sexual and romantic, as well as significant nonparental adults. The third area examines Adolescents in Social Institutions. This area of research centers on the influence and nature of important institutions that serve as the socializing contexts for adolescents. These major institutions include schools, religious groups, justice systems, medical fields, cultural contexts, media, legal systems, economic structures, and youth organizations. Adolescent Mental Health constitutes the last major area of research. This broad area of research focuses on the wide variety of human thoughts, actions, and behaviors relating to mental health from psychopathology to thriving. Major topic examples include deviance, violence, crime, pathology, DSM, normalcy, risk, victimization, disabilities, flow, and positive youth development.

Mitigating Cyberbullying Yee Man Wong, 2020 While bringing tremendous benefits to individuals worldwide the proliferation of online social networks has also given rise to undesirable online harassment behavior Although users can respond in various ways little attention has been paid so far to the use of online coping strategies on social media more specifically how individuals respond to online harassment by using the available features on social media This thesis sought to understand individuals' use of online coping strategies This thesis aims to tackle these challenges to advance the understanding of whether how and why individuals use online coping strategies in response to online harassment

Essay 1 develops a typology of online coping strategies based on users' focus of response i.e. self or initiator and mode of response i.e. avoidance or approach This essay serves as a conceptual background for the two subsequent empirical studies Essay 2 and Essay 3 that focus on two critical roles involved in online harassment e.g. victims and bystanders These two studies are conducted in the social media context Essay 2 investigates whether and how individuals use online coping strategies in response to online harassment on social media Results from a scenario-based experiment showed that victims would be more likely to adopt self-focused and approach strategies e.g. seclusion mediation and reporting when they perceived a high threat of the incident Confidence in executing the platform functions would increase victims' use of the initiators' focused strategies in both modes e.g. blocking and reporting but reduce their use of self-focused avoidance strategy e.g. seclusion Trust in social media would lead victims to the self-focused approach strategy e.g. mediation Victims with the intensified fear of the incident would be more likely to use the self-focused and avoidance strategies e.g. seclusion mediation and blocking While Essay 2 focuses on the role of victims Essay 3 concentrates on the role of bystanders and reporting strategy which is one of the online coping strategies on social media that support bystanders' interventions Essay 3 explains why individuals report witnessing online harassment The results found that four contextualized factors perceived emergency of the online harassment incident perceived responsibility to report perceived self-efficacy in using built-in reporting functions and perceived outcome effectiveness of built-in reporting functions for tackling online harassment are important factors for shaping bystander reporting interventions while the presence of others as an inhibitor that discourages bystanders willingness to help This essay also found that socio environmental and technological factors exert a significant effect on bystanders willingness to intervene In sum this thesis contributes to the area of online harassment by breaking new ground for the study of users prosocial responses to online harassment on social media It not only furthers our understanding of online coping strategies but also provides valuable insights for practitioners to design effective coping features to combat online harassment
