The Status of Student Involvement in University Governance in Kenya Mulinge, Munyae M., Arasa, Josephine N., 2017-05-05 This book examines the concept of the democratization of governance in universities in Kenya with particular emphasis on students involvement in governance processes and decision making Data were collected from members of the student community utilizing a structured self administered questionnaire and from purposively selected key informants and focus group discussants drawn from Kenyatta University representing the public sector and the United States International University representing the private sector The guiding argument for the study was that shared governance one of the principles of good governance is critical in enabling the universities to deliver their visions and the missions effectively The results revealed that while in principle Kenyan universities have embraced democratic governance in which all stakeholders including students have a role to play in practice they continue to violate the core principles of good governance particularly shared governance Specifically students who are major stakeholders in university education are largely excluded from significant structures of governance thereby limiting their influence and participation Although their representation is mainly provided via student self governance organs unions associations and or councils their effectiveness is undermined considerably by the lack of trust and confidence of the student body and the unending manipulation by top university administrators and external political actors Student active involvement in decision making is mainly confined to lower levels such as the school faculty and departmental programme The authors call for a paradigm shift in the involvement of students in the governance of universities in ways that discourage the current culture of tokenism and political correctness that characterizes public and private universities in Kenya

Technology and Oligopoly Capitalism Luis Suarez-Villa,2023-04-14 Technology and Oligopoly Capitalism is a major contribution to our understanding of how technology oligopolies are shaping America s social economic and political reality Technology oligopolies are the most powerful socioeconomic entities in America From cradle to grave the decisions they make affect the most intimate aspects of our lives how we work what we eat our health how we communicate what we know and believe whom we elect and how we relate to one another and to nature Their power over markets trade regulation and most every aspect of our governance is more intrusive and farther reaching than ever They benefit from tax breaks government guarantees and bailouts that we must pay for and have no control over Their accumulation of capital creates immense wealth for a minuscule elite deepening disparities while politics and governance become ever more subservient to their power They determine our skills and transform employment through the tools and services they create as no other organizations can They produce a vast array of goods and services with labor marketing and research that are more intrusively controlled than ever as workplace rights and job security are curtailed or disappear Our consumption of their products and their capacity to promote wants is deep and far reaching while the waste they generate raises concerns about the survival of life on our planet And their links to geopolitics and the martial domain are stronger than ever as they influence how warfare is waged and who will be vanquished Technology and Oligopoly Capitalism s critical multidisciplinary perspective provides a systemic vision of how oligopolistic power shapes these forces and phenomena An inclusive approach spans the spectrum of technology oligopolies and the ways in which they deploy their power Numerous previously unpublished ideas expand the repertory of established work on the topics covered advancing explanatory quality to elucidate

how and why technology oligopolies operate as they do the dysfunctions that accompany their power and their effects on society and nature This book has no peers in the literature in its scope the unprecedented amount and diversity of documentation the breadth of concepts and the vast number of examples it provides Its premises deserve to be taken into account by every student researcher policymaker and author interested in the socioeconomic and political dimensions of technology in America Current Advances in Contraceptive Use, Technology, and Promotion Allen Kabagenyi ,Ronald Anguzu,2025-10-10 There is a high unmet need for effective contraception in Sub Saharan Africa with low rates of contraceptive use While this situation has persisted over the last three decades improvements in contraceptive utilization rates would lead to many high fertility countries harnessing the demographic dividend Promotion of modern contraceptive use has resulted in long term returns on investment such as fertility decline increases in girl child education employment and women empowerment household level socio economic improvement as well as averted unintended pregnancies maternal morbidity and mortality With the advances in contraceptive technology the global agenda of FP2030 SDGs 2030 the UNFPA strategy of zero unmet need and the disruption caused by the COVID 19 pandemic this collection will provide research on strategies for increasing contraceptive use creating a communication platform to share global research and best practices to advance contraception and family planning This Research Topic will highlight recent novel research on contraceptive provision and utilization from a global community of practitioners policy makers and users of family planning bringing together diverse perspectives and experiences in research practice demand creation and advocacy for use by family planning programs policymakers academia healthcare providers and other stakeholders This Research Topic welcomes high impact articles from experienced and early career researchers in the field of family planning and contraception Authors are welcome to submit original research articles based on primary or secondary data scoping reviews systematic reviews case or cohort studies and program based research Topical areas may include but are not limited to Advances in novel contraceptive technology Global impact of COVID 19 on contraceptive use and family planning Preferences safety and use of long acting and reversible contraception Behavioral economics behavior change and demand generation for contraceptives Applying theories of health behavior implementation science and predictive modeling Social cultural determinants of contraceptive use method mix and male involvement Empowerment gender equality social norms and inter personal relations including the role of intimate partner violence Integration of family planning into development and health programs Strategies gaps and missed opportunities for achieving global strategies on increased family planning Handbook of Water Harvesting and Conservation Saeid Eslamian,Faezeh Eslamian,2021-03-01 Water harvesting is gaining more and more recognition as a sustainable and resilient water supply options It is economically viable socially compatible and environmentally friendly Water harvesting has proven to be a robust solution to overcome or reduce water shortages all over the world It is important to understand how to apply this practice in a sustainable and effective way to make full use of its potential in a world increasingly threatened by water scarcity The Handbook of Water Harvesting and Conservation Basic Concepts and Fundamentals is the most comprehensive up to date and applied handbook on water harvesting and conservation yet published The book s 30 chapters written by 84 outstanding international experts from approximately 20 selected countries faced by drought explore critique and develop concepts and systems for water harvesting The editors bring together many perspectives into a synthesis that is both academically based and practical in its potential applications The Handbook of Water Harvesting and Conservation Basic Concepts and Fundamentals is an important tool for education research and technical works in the areas of soil water and watershed management and is highly useful for drought strategy planning flood management and developing techniques to adapt to climate change in urban agricultural forest and rangeland areas

HIV/AIDS Victor R Preedy,Ronald Ross Watson,2017-11-21 HIV AIDS Oxidative Stress and Dietary Antioxidants provides comprehensive coverage of oxidative stress in HIV AIDS focusing on both the pathological process around molecular and cellular metabolism and the complications that can arise due to nutritional imbalance It provides a pathway for researchers and clinicians to gain an in depth understanding of the role of oxidative stress bridging the transdisciplinary divide between virologists immunologists physicians clinical workers food scientists and nutritionists to advance medical sciences and enable preventative treatment strategies Very often oxidative stress is a feature of HIV AIDs or of the treatment of HIV AIDs While immunologists physicians and clinical workers understand the processes in HIV AIDs they may be less conversant in the science of nutrition and dietetics Similarly nutritionists and dietitians may be less conversant with the detailed clinical background and science of HIV AIDs Offers holistic coverage of HIV AIDS and the role of oxidative stress Written by a leading team of international experts Provides a roadmap to therapeutic potential and crosses the trans tissue or transdisciplinary divides

New Challenges and Future Perspectives in Nutrition and Sustainable Diets in Africa Hettie Carina Schönfeldt,Gloria Essilfie,Yunyun Gong,2024-05-06 Africa is confronted with the triple burden of malnutrition it is also faced with the triple challenges of poverty inequality and unemployment In many African countries large proportions of the population rely on agriculture not only for their food but also for their livelihoods A transformed agricultural and food system is thus a necessary condition for addressing this double triple challenge Additionally post harvest and food waste and losses reduce the availability of sufficient quantities of safe edible and preferable foods At least one third of food produced at farm level is lost due to inappropriate storage infrastructure and agro processing technologies in developing countries and one third of food purchased is wasted at household and retail level
