The Governance and Regulation of International Finance Fabrizio Cafaggi, Geoffrey P. Miller, 2013. The publication of this book could hardly be more timely; it fills a gap in present day discussion of the reasons for the recent ongoing financial crises and who was responsible. The balance between the governance and regulation of the international finance market underpins how securely we proceed into the future. At a time when sovereign defaults dominate public discussion, this issue is of quintessential importance. The editors are to be congratulated for this important publication. Christoph Paulus Humboldt University of Berlin, Germany. This thought provoking book adds a new perspective to the analysis of how regulation should respond to the global financial crisis of 2008-2009. It focuses on the private as opposed to public aspect of regulation and highlights the works of the public-private dialectic in regulation and enforcement. The expert authors examine what is perhaps the single most important sector in which public and private regulation and enforcement intersect: the arena of banking and global finance. The detailed analysis of these particular areas of finance thus provides a means for investigating aspects of the important topic of private regulation and enforcement in financial markets. A number of pertinent questions are addressed including: How does private regulation and enforcement enhance or detract from the legitimacy of the process by which these market segments are managed and controlled? How does private regulation and enforcement manifest independence of action and judgment as compared with public regulation How does private regulation and enforcement measure up along dimensions of quality relative to public regulation and finally What forms of accountability characterize private as opposed to public regulation and enforcement Illustrating the works of the public private dialectic in regulation and enforcement this challenging book will prove a fascinating read for academics scholars and practitioners with an interest in regulation and governance issues and in financial and banking law
