

Lab Report

The lab report will be written in a format that reflects the nature of the course. Since this is an experimental course where you will be performing experiments, collecting data on these experiments and finally analyzing your data; the lab reports should be written in a manner that will convey what was done in the experiment and then relate the data to the physical concepts that are being explored in the lab.

In this lab course we will use the model of the current acceptable format used in the physics literary journals. In particular we will model the format specified by the Journal of Chemical Physics.

The format for the J. Chem. Phys. is:

Title (Centered Top of Page)

Be creative do NOT use the same name provided by the lab manual

Abstract (Centered below title, do not need to write the word abstract)

A brief couple of sentences that describes what you did, why you did it and what you got. Should be no more than a short paragraph.

Introduction

Should explain why you are performing the experiment, what you are trying to find and the theory involved in the experiment. If you list formulas in this section you should define all the constants being used in the formulas and also label the formulas as follows and refer to them such as Formula 1 if referring to them later in the text.

$$y = mx + b \quad (1)$$

Experiment

This section will be a description of what was physically done in the lab. It should be in your own words and in paragraph form. If you measure a quantity remember to always list the units along with the physical number.

Results and Discussion

This is the most important section of the lab report. Here you will present and explain your data. If you were asked to measure for instance the gravitational constant 'g', you should specify the result you got, compare your result to the theoretically accepted value and find the percent difference between the two values. Furthermore, you should then evaluate whether or not your value has an acceptable percent difference and account for the divergence from the accepted value.

Conclusions

This should be the section where you say whether or not the experiment was successful and what it showed.
