sidestep complex problems in learning and decision making but ultimately limit what they can learn Humans embody an evolutionary transition to a different kind of intelligence one that relies on behavioral and mental flexibility The book argues that flexibility is useless to most animals because they lack sufficient opportunities to learn new behavioral and mental skills Humans find these opportunities in lengthy childhoods and through culture Blending the latest findings in fields ranging from psychology to evolutionary anthropology The Human Evolutionary Transition draws on computational analyses of the problems organisms face extensive overviews of empirical data on animal and human learning and mathematical modeling and computer simulations of hypotheses about intelligence This compelling book demonstrates that animal and human intelligence evolved from similar selection pressures while identifying bottlenecks in evolution that may explain why human like intelligence is so rare
