Journal Questions – 5 pts. for each entry @ 115 points total

Your journal entries should be half a page in length, typed, and should address all the questions asked. These will be turned in as a complete project the week before final exams, and returned back to you the last day of class.

Entry #	Chapter Name	Question(s) – ANSWER ALL OF THEM
1	"The Things They Carried"	Why is the first story written in third person? What effect does this have on the reader?
2	"Love"	What does Jimmy Cross' story about Martha at the movies have to do with Ted Lavender? Why does he describe the scene so vividly?
3	"Spin"	What does it mean when O'Brien writes, in his "peace story," "All that peace, man, it felt so good it hurt . I want to hurt it back ." What does this say about peace? About the Vietnam War?
4	"On the Rainy River"	Who is Elroy Berdhal? What do you think he represented to O'Brien? What is O'Brien's definition of courage in this chapter? Do you think it's the same now?
5	"Enemies"	Why did Jensen break his own nose?
6	"Friends"	How did Strunk and Jensen become friends? Why did Jensen feel relieved to hear that Strunk had died?
7	"How to Tell a True War Story"	According to O'Brien, how do you tell a true war story? What does he mean when he says that true war stories are never about war?

Things They Carried Journal Entries Answer:

Reader Response in Secondary and College Classrooms Nicholas J. Karolides, 2013-04-15 This text based on Louise M. Rosenblatt's transactional model of literature focuses on the application of transactional reader response theory in the classroom. It grows from frequent requests from secondary school and college teachers for teaching suggestions on how to put theory into practice. This is not a "What should I do on Monday" cookbook but an expression of the practice of theory in college and secondary school classrooms. The chapters portray a spectrum of strategies including biopoems, expressive and imaginative writing, journal writing, readers theater, role playing, and unsent letters, using as examples individual works from several genres. Recognizing that teachers who may have been trained in other theories and methodologies may be hesitant about their quite different role and expectations in the reader-centered classroom, the authors provide stepping stones to develop readiness and confidence, suggestions and insights to ease the transition to the transactional model of teaching and learning. Pedagogical features: An explanatory introduction to each section defines its orientation and describes the content and direction of the chapters it contains. Invitations elicit engagement of readers with concepts, attitudes, or strategies presented in the chapters; they invite readers as individuals or members of a small group to consider ideas or to practice a strategy among other activities in order to enhance understandings. A glossary defines key concepts and strategies discussed in the text. A bibliography provides an extensive list of resources: books and journal articles, both theoretical and applied. New in the second edition: Six new chapters; three deal with the roles of film as literature in the English classroom and three with enhancing multicultural understandings. Updates and revisions to several chapters that appeared in the first edition. Invitations new in this edition have been added to focus and expand readers' thinking.

Teaching Literature to Adolescents Richard Beach, Deborah Appleman, Susan Hynds, Jeffrey Wilhelm, 2013-08-21 This text for pre-service and in-service English education courses presents current methods of teaching literature to middle and high school students. The methods are based on social constructivist, socio-cultural theories of literacy learning and incorporate research on literary response conducted by the authors. Teaching Literature to Adolescents is a totally new text that draws on ideas from the best-selling textbook Teaching Literature in the Secondary School by Beach and Marshall, reflects and builds on recent key developments in theory and practice in the field, including the importance of providing students with a range of critical lenses for analyzing texts and interrogating the beliefs, attitudes, and ideological perspectives encountered in literature; organization of the literature curriculum around topics, themes, or issues; infusion of multicultural literature and emphasis on how writers portray race, class, and gender differences; use of drama as a tool for enhancing understanding of texts; employment of a range of different ways to write about literature; integration of critical analysis of film and media texts with the study of literature; blending of quality young adult literature into the curriculum; and attention to students who have difficulty succeeding in literature classes due to reading difficulties, disparities between school and home cultures, attitudes toward school English, or
