Lovely Bones Essay

In Alice Sebold's "The Lovely Bones", the theme revolves around the experience of grief, loss, and acceptance. Throughout the book, all the characters experience these emotions through different ways. The way that the characters go through their emotions is how Sebold tries to communicate her message to us: everyone experiences grief differently, some better than others. Although they all seem to be doing horribly, some of the characters seem to deal with their emotions better and worse than others. Susie, a 14-year-old victim of rape and murder, struggles to accept the fact that she's dead. She can't seem to let go of her family and friends.

Susie tends to linger with them through the afterlife, and watches over them as they deal with her death. Seeing everyone grieve is what makes it harder for her to let go, and move on into heaven to meet with Mr. Harvey's other victims. Meanwhile, she can only watch her family and friends struggle as she does too. Although Susie seems to suffer the most, she gets to enjoy the spoils of heaven, making her grieving process far better than for those who love her. Susie's family goes through very difficult times after her death.

Her mother and father drift apart and seem to lose communication in response to the unfortunate event. Jack, her father, becomes obsessed with finding her murderer. Eventually, Lindsey breaks into Mr. Harvey's home to find some sort of evidence that he is Susie's murderer which feeds into Jack's obsession. Eventually, Jack's suspicions make him look insane to others, but little do they know, the mystery of Susie's death makes him feel as if he failed as a father. Jack realizes that he wasn't there to protect her daughter when attacked, or to hold her during her last moments on earth. This makes Jack's emotional experience worse but his obsession helps keep him occupied since he knows seeking justice for Susie would be the key to his relief. Meanwhile, Abigail, can't seem to accept the idea of her daughter being dead. Her husband's obsessive behavior and lack of attention drives her to an affair with Len, the police officer.

After struggling to keep herself together, she flees to California to work at a winery, leaving her daughter, son, and husband behind when they need her most. Ever since Susie's death, Abigail feels as if there is no hope and as if she isn't good enough for her family. Since most of the characters seem to neglect her, she feels abandoned and seeks attention, leading to her affair with Len. Therefore, Abigail seems to have the worst experience with grief out of all the characters. On top of her daughter's death, she now feels guilty because she didn't handle the situation in a good way and instead, lost connection with those that she loved. Although her mother abandons her, Lindsey seems to be less emotional about this experience compared to her mother and father.

She shows no empathy for her mother leaving. Lindsey is more ashamed than...

the Thing with Feathers Max Porter, 2016-06-07 Here he is husband and father, scruffy romantic, a shambolic scholar, a man adrift in the wake of his wife's sudden accidental death. And there are his two sons who like him struggle in their London apartment to face the unbearable sadness that has engulfed them. The father imagines a future of well-meaning visitors and emptiness while the boys wander savage and unsupervised. In this moment of violent despair, they are visited by Crow, antagonist, trickster, goad, protector, therapist, and babysitter. This self-described sentimental bird, at once wild and tender, who finds humans dull, except in grief, threatens to stay with the wounded family until they no longer need him. As weeks turn to months and the pain of loss lessens with the balm of memories, Crow's efforts are rewarded and the little unit of three begins to recover. Dad resumes his book about the poet Ted Hughes; the boys get on with it, grow up. Part novella, part polyphonic fable, part essay on grief, Max Porter's extraordinary debut combines compassion and bravura style to dazzling effect. Full of angular wit and profound truths, Grief Is the Thing with Feathers is a startlingly original and haunting debut by a significant new talent. *The Complete Works of Shakespeare ... Aura Glaser wrote this book to remedy a deficiency she discovered while engaged in psychological research: a nearly complete omission of the importance and cultivation of compassion. Other books exploring Buddhism and psychology have focused on what the Theravada school of Buddhism, which teaches personal liberation through enlightenment, can offer psychology. A Call to Compassion works with Mahayana Buddhism, in which practitioners commit to the liberation of all sentient beings, with compassion central to attaining that goal. In her fascinating and exceptionally clear and concise review of the work of Freud, Jung, and others, Glaser shows how psychology has been ambivalent about the subject of compassion and therefore has developed no methodology for helping individuals cultivate this essential quality in the service of helping others. Glaser introduces as a remedy the Buddhist practice of the lojong expressed in the text of The Seven Points of Mind Training for developing love and compassion. With modern day life examples she illustrates the four major points compassion for self compassion for others exchanging self and others and no self and no other affirming that these points are indeed attainable If we make the effort to contemplate understand and truly integrate these four essentials we will have a sound basis for both psychological health and genuine transformation DIV Introduction to Shakespeare's Plays, Containing an Essay on Oratory Francis Gentleman,1773
