The Dynamics of Changing Higher Education in the Global South Busani Mpofo, Sabelo Ndlovu-Gatsheni, 2020-06-29 Today there are generally universities in Africa rather than African universities The legitimacy of the university in Africa is under serious questions now because of its complicity in racism patriarchy sexism colonialism capitalism genocide epistemicide linguicide culturecide and alienation In other words the university in Africa as we know it today is elitist and exclusionary Therefore rethinking the idea of the university is fundamental to overcoming its current deficiencies in the Global South This volume bringing together a number of national case studies and macro analyses on the dynamics of changing higher education in the Global South gestures towards the desired imagined decolonial African university which should be a site of multilingualism where African indigenous languages cosmologies and ontologies become a central part of its identity and soul intolerant of epistemicides

Modernism and Cultural Nationalism in the Apartheid Capital Hilton Judin,2021-04-08 This book is the first comprehensive investigation of the architecture of the apartheid state in the period of rapid economic growth and political repression from 1957 to 1966 when buildings took on an ideological role that was never remote from the increasingly dominant administrative legislative and policing mechanisms of the regime It considers how this process reflected the usurpation of a regional modernism and looks to contribute to wider discourses on international postwar modernism in architecture

Buildings in Pretoria that came to embody ambitions of the apartheid state for industrialisation and progress serve as case studies. These were widely acclaimed projects that embodied for apartheid officials the pursuit of modernisation but carried latent apprehensions of Afrikaners about their growing economic prospects and cultural estrangement in Africa. It is a less known and marginal story due to the dearth of material and documents buried in archives and untranslated documents. Many of the documents, drawings and photographs in the book are unpublished and include classified material and photographs from the National Nuclear Research Centre negatives of 1960s from Pretoria News and documents and pamphlets from Afrikaner Broederbond archives. State architecture became the most iconic public manifestation of an evolving expression of white cultural identity as a new generation of architects in Pretoria took up the challenge of finding form to their prospects and beliefs. It was an opportunistic faith in Afrikaners who urgently needed to entrench their vulnerable and contested position on the African continent. The shift from provincial town to apartheid capital was swift and relentless. Little was left to stand in the way of the ambitions and aim of the state as people were uprooted and forcibly relocated, structures torn down and block upon block of administration towers and slabs erected across Pretoria. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of architectural history as well as those with an interest in postcolonial studies, political science and social anthropology.

Contested Issues in Training Ministers in South Africa Marilyn Naidoo, 2015-07-01. The purpose of this book is to engage challenging issues that are called into question during ministerial training. This is a volume presenting eleven contested issues that attend to concerns related to structures, processes, knowledge and practices within theological education. Contributors offer keen insights about how to think differently and more complexly about these matters within a changing South Africa. It is an affirmation of the multiple voices, locations, identities and positions within South African theological education as a starting point for transformative theological education. It is hoped that these reflections can enable future ministers to confront the question of how to be in the world with the required competence, integrity and professional identity to meet the needs of church and society.

Rethinking Learner Support in Distance Education Roger Mills, Alan Tait, 2004-08-02. Distance learning is becoming an increasingly popular way of studying and most universities now provide courses using these methods. Today's students though are demanding high quality, consumer focused and flexible courses as well as learning resources and active learner support. This means that providers of distance education need to reconsider key issues about their learner support systems, ensuring that this is delivered appropriately and effectively. Considering the changing needs and demands of distance education students, this book draws together contributions from the UK, USA, Hong Kong, Australia, Japan, South Africa and Botswana to offer an international perspective on the challenges and opportunities of Information and Communication Technologies (ICT), quality assurance, commercialisation and the learner as consumer, the impact on learners of cultural differences on internationalised curricula, the implications for learner support of a wider range of learners. This book should be read by all those involved in developing and delivering distance education.
