Technologies of the Human Corpse John Troyer, 2021-08-03. One of our greatest thinkers on death presents a radical new approach to thinking about dying and the human corpse. Caitlin Doughty, mortician and bestselling author of Smoke Gets in Your Eyes, a fascinating exploration of the relationship between technology and the human corpse throughout history from 19th-century embalming machines to 21st-century death prevention technologies. Death and the dead body have never been more alive in the public imagination, not least because of current debates over modern medical technology that is deployed it seems expressly to keep human bodies from dying, blurring the boundary between alive and dead. In this book, John Troyer

examines the relationship of the dead body with technology both material and conceptual the physical machines political concepts and sovereign institutions that humans use to classify organize repurpose and transform the human corpse Doing so he asks readers to think about death dying and dead bodies in radically different ways Troyer explains for example how technologies of the nineteenth century including embalming and photography created our image of a dead body as quasi atemporal existing outside biological limits formerly enforced by decomposition He describes the Happy Death Movement of the 1970s the politics of HIV AIDS corpse and the productive potential of the dead body the provocations of the Body Worlds exhibits and their use of preserved dead bodies the black market in human body parts and the transformation of historic technologies of the human corpse into death prevention technologies The consequences of total control over death and the dead body Troyer argues are not liberation but the abandonment of Homo sapiens as a concept and a species In this unique work Troyer forces us to consider the increasing overlap between politics dying and the dead body in both general and specifically personal terms
