

Why Gun Control Laws Should Be Stricter In The US

Millions of guns are sold every year in America with no questions asked. Looking at recent acts of violence in America you can clearly see that guns play a big role in these horrendous acts. Some people think that America should have stricter gun laws or abolish citizens from buying guns altogether. Others think that it's a violation of our second amendment and should not be changed. But when should the government draw the line? There are more ways to show the harmful effects of guns in our society than just statistics. Stories of parents who've lost their children and children that are left fatherless or motherless due to gun violence show the negative impacts of guns more than any statistics could ever show. That is why gun laws in America should be much stricter than they are now.

Guns are hazardous objects and unless you're a policeman or, you use firearms to hunt then why would you need a gun. According to John Hopkins Center For Gun Policy and Research "More than 31,000 people a year in the United States die from gunshot wounds and over 80,000 are injured" That may seem like a small number to some considering there are 350 million plus people living in the United States but, the effects of gun violence extend far beyond these casualties gun violence shapes the lives of millions of Americans who witness it, know someone who was shot, or lives in fear of the next shooting. Bruce D. Perry, a psychiatrist and one of the country's leading experts on childhood trauma says "Even kids who come from middle-class and upper-middle-class communities literally don't feel safe in schools." This is due to the fact of the many school shootings that have occurred over the last four years. It may not seem
